THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

VOL. XVII. ATLANTA, GA., FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 26 1885. PRICE FIVE CENTS.

IN THE CABINET.

THE KEILY CASE NOT REFERRED TO IN THE MEETING.

A Question of Fees Decided by Commissioner Durham—The Broken Rice Rule of the Tariff to Remain as it is—The Fisheries Agreement with Great Britain—Etc

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The cabinet meeting to-day was short and unimportant. Secretary Endicott was the only absentee. Contrary to expectation the case of Minister Keily was not mentioned. It is understood that no action will be taken in the matter until the wishes of the Austrian government are officially communicated.

The secretary of the treasury has been informed that the recent investigation of the condition of the sub treasury at New Orleans shows the total defalcation of the runaway clerk, Auldemorte, amounts to a little over $25,000.

First Comptroller Durham has decided that the fees for oaths should be allowed only when oaths are required to prove the correctness of accounts for the expenses of travel and other expenses when authorized, or to prove the mileage and per diem fees of the jurors and witnesses, and for oaths of witnesses sworn to testify in behalf of the United States.

THE RICE DECISION.

Assistant Secretary Fairchild has written a letter to the collector of customs of New York in regard to the question of duty on broken or granulated rice. Mr. Fairchild says that, after a full and careful consideration of the question in all its bearings, listening to the arguments of persons interested and inspecting samples of the rice, he does not feel justified in making any change in the department regulations of April 18, 1883. He says he arrived at this conclusion more readily, inasmuch as he believes it should be the policy of the department not to disturb the existing rules of practice except for more serious reasons than exist in the case under consideration, and also because since the original decision was made, the parties aggrieved have had full opportunity of presenting and did present, as it is understood, their claims to congress, but without obtaining any modification of existing law in the premises. The collector is, therefore, instructed to be governed by the principles enunciated in the decision of February, 1883, but to see that it only applies to such merchandise as may be returned by the appraiser as possessing the characteristics therein mentioned, that is to say, the substance must indicate in itself that it has been subjected to the intentional process of grinding or manufacture.

The president has issued an executive notice announcing the diplomatic agreement between the United States and Great Britain, continuing the privileges granted by the fisheries clause of the treaty of Washington throughout the season of 1885, and will, as part of this agreement, bring the whole question of fisheries before congress in December, and recommend the appointment of a joint commission by the governments of the United States and Great Britain, to consider the questions in the interest of maintaining friendly intercourse between the two countries.

THE YELLOW FEVER.

The marine hospital bureau has been officially informed of the arrival of the Norwegian bark Nat, from Cienfuegoes, at Delaware Breakwater quarantine, with two cases of yellow fever on board, and of the arrival of the schooner Peter C. Schultz, from Mobile to Philadelphia, at Cape Charles quarantine, with suspicious cases of fever on board from which the captain had died. The patients on the Nat were removed to the quarantine hospital and the vessel disinfected. The captain of the Schultz had been buried on Fisherman's island until his remains can be safely removed to his home in New York. The sick were removed to the hospital. The vessel will be detained for disinfection.

The secretary of the navy has appointed a court, with Commander A. A. Temmes as president, and Paymaster R. W. Allen as judge advocate, to try Paymaster-General Smith on charges of scandalous conduct tending to the destruction of good morals and culpable inefficiency in the performance of his duty.

The light house board gives notice that on June 30, 1885, or as soon thereafter as practicable, a light of the third order, giving alternate red and white flashes with intervals of thirty seconds between flashes, will be shown from the light house recently erected at Cape San Blas, Gulf of Mexico, Florida.

TROUBLE EXPECTED IN COLUMBIA.

A report has been received at the navy department from Admiral Jouett, announcing the failure by the parties interested to settle the disputes in the United States of Colombia. He says the political differences between the two parties are of such a nature that a peaceable settlement is quite impossible at this time. Hostilities are likely to continue indefinitely. The government troops, he reports, are marching on Barranquilla. The revolutionary leaders, the admiral says, are the leaders of the liberal party in Colombia. Trouble on the isthmus, Admiral Jouett thinks, results from local policies, and from the fact that many deproved characters congregate there. He anticipates hard fighting in Colombia.

The president to-day appointed M. Glennan postmaster at Norfolk, Va., vice J. M. Long, suspended for partisanship.

SHRADY ON GRANT.

The Condition of the Patient For the Last Month Noted.

MOUNT MCGREGOR, June 25.—Dr. Shrady to-day telegraphed to the Medical Record, for its Saturday issue, the following official bulletin of General Grant's condition:

The progress of the disease from which the general is suffering is, barring accidental complications, slow. Comparing the condition of the patient with what it was a month ago, the changes which have taken place can be appreciated. Taking this period of time into consideration, it can be said that the swelling under the angle of the lower jaw, on the right side, has increased, and has become harder and more deeply fixed. It has shown a tendency to progress in a direction downward and forward upon the right side of the neck. The infiltration extending into the neighboring glandular structures. THE AMERICAN ENGINEERS.

DEER PARK, Md., June 25.—At the opening of the morning session of the second day of the convention of the American Society of Engineers, Mr. F. Collingwood, of Elizabeth, N. J., read a paper on the preservation of forests. The paper presented a large number of statistics collected from various sources, its purpose being to show the necessity of exercising economy in the use of forest products and the apparent possibility of a wood famine. The writer concluded that the supply of white pine in the United States is certain to be exhausted before the end of this century and probably in Canada also. Of southern pines, at the present rate of consumption, there is stated to be one hundred and fifty years' supply of spruce and hemlock east of the Mississippi. There is probably twenty-five years' supply of hard woods. The supply of black walnut and ash are being rapidly exhausted. The supplies of other kinds of wood are, however, so abundant that a famine cannot be predicted. In reference to tree planting, the writer stated that when intelligently undertaken in regions where timber is scarce, a fair return is made on the investment. In the discussion that followed, it was insisted by Cotton, Wood, Engleston and others, that the timber planting can be made as profitable as crop planting. A paper entitled "Specifications for the strength of iron bridges," by Jos. M. Wilson, engineer of the bridges and buildings of the Pennsylvania railroad, was read by Captain Michaelis.

Various supplementary papers on the same subject were read. The papers gave rise to a long discussion, which exhausted the remainder of the morning session.

Mr. J. E. Watkins, representing the new department which has been recently added to the national museum at Washington, for collecting engineering relics and exhibits, asked for the co-operation of the society in making this department a valuable one.

In the afternoon an excursion was made by invitation of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad to Buckhorn.

At the evening session the majority report of the committee on a uniform system for tests of cements was read. The minority report was presented by Messrs. Whittimore and Norton, which objected to the majority report so far as it formulated a standard for cements. Both reports were received and ordered printed.

The committee on uniform standard of time reported progress, and was continued. An invitation was made from the managers of the proposed exhibition in London in 1886, inviting the society to hold its next meeting in London.

Letters were read from other scientific societies, assuring the society of a hearty welcome. The question was laid over. Mr. Wellington proposed a resolution looking to the co-operation of the society with other engineering associations and the formation of a national engineering society. The matter was referred to a committee. A resolution was offered by Mr. Latimer, requesting that no liquors be allowed at the annual dinner which will take place tomorrow. The motion received no second until Mr. North seconded it, not because he would not like to have wine, but out of respect for the man who had the coursge to make such a motion. The motion was ruled out of order.

The Southeastern Tariff Association.

FORT MONROE, Va., June 25.—The southern tariff association, Clarance Knowles presiding, discussed the rates today and decided to make no changes. F. C. Moore, of New York, addressed the convention on the subject of compensation of agents. The association will elect officers and adjourn to-morrow.

THE INDIAN WAR.

A Husband Shot Dead, But His Wife and Children Escape.

DENVER, Col., June 25.—The following particulars of the Indian troubles in the southern part of the state has been received: Saturday evening a party of Indians camped on Beaver Creek, a tributary of Dolores river, sixty miles from Durango. After a time they got into an altercation with the cowboys about some horses, which the latter claimed the Indians were trying to steal. One Indian ran to a tepee in which were four others, a buck, a squaw, a papoose and a boy. The cowboys followed, and opened fire on the Indians in the tepee, killing all but the boy, who was wounded, but got away. At 10 o'clock that night, in Montezuma valley, twenty miles distant from the scene of the murder of the Indians, a man named Genther sat in his house reading. His children were all asleep, and his wife was preparing to retire. Suddenly the woman heard a noise, and running out of the house discovered the building to be on fire. Genther then came out to extinguish the flames, and while so engaged was shot, being struck by seven bullets. His wife ran to assist him and was shot in the shoulder. Before he died Genther told his wife to get the children out of the house, which she did, hiding them and herself in the brush until the Indians had departed. Hidden by the darkness and carrying her infant in her arms, and leading another child by the hand, her four other children following as best they could, Mrs. Genther wandered all night through the sage brush, barefooted and in her night clothes. Finally near morning she reached a neighbor's house. At Wooley's store the Indians helped themselves to whatever they wanted, and departed. Mrs. Genther, at last accounts, was in a very critical condition. The body of her husband was found burned to a crisp.

READY TO MAKE WAR.

It is reported that five hundred Indians are ready to make war. The result of the investigation now being made by Agent Stollstiemer, is unsatisfactory to them. The Indians were seen on Monday and Tuesday moving westward, followed by two companies of cavalry. The whole country is terribly excited.

A Town Flooded.

READING, Pa., June 25.—During last night, a water main leading from Hampden reservoir, one of Reading's sources of water supply, burst, and the houses in the vicinity for several squares were flooded. The people who slept in the lower rooms were compelled to fly to their lives. Garden truck was washed out considerably. Several narrow escapes were made from drowning. The water at its highest was at 5 to 8 feet deep. The cellars and lower stories of some forty houses were flooded. The accident caused great excitement.

Death of Dr. Kirkpatrick.

RICHMOND, Va., June 25.—Rev. Dr. J. L. Kirkpatrick, professor of moral philosophy and belles letters at Washington and Lee university, died at his residence in Lexington yesterday afternoon. The deceased was one of the strongest and best known men in the southern Presbyterian church. He held during his life a number of important charges, and was president of Davidson college, N. C., for several years. He was moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly in 1862, and held his last position since 1866.

Two More Men Lynched.

PALESTINE, Tex., June 25.—A report, as yet unconfirmed, reached here last night that two more negroes charged with being engaged in the murder and rape of Mrs. Hazell, near Elkhart, have been captured and lynched in Houston county, making seven who have been thus disposed of.

A Murderer Respited.

RALEIGH, N. C., June 25.—Governor Scales has respited Eaton Mills, a negro who was to have been hanged to-morrow at Halifax, N. C., for murder. The evidence produced is regarded as favorable for Mills.

HENDRICKS IN THE HUB.

THE GREAT INDIANIAN BLAZES OUT AGAIN.

He is Entertained at a Banquet by the Bay State Club—He Makes the Welkin Ring with the Sound of Jubilant Democracy—The Interesting Events of the Night.

BOSTON, Mass., June 25.—At the Parker house this afternoon, Vice-President Hendricks was tendered a reception and dinner by the Bay State club. Plates were laid for 300, and about that number gathered to do honor to the "war horse" from Indians. Prominent among those present were, Ex-Governor Gaston, Colonel Taylor, Congressman Collins, Hon. Edward Avery, Charles P. Thompson, ex-Mayor Prince, Major O'Brien, Hon. John Quincy Adams and Josiah G. Abbott, and numerous state and municipal officials. At about 4 o'clock Colonel Chas. H. Taylor, president of the club, called the company to order, and in a brief speech introduced Vice President Hendricks, who was received with cheers.

MR. HENDRICKS SPEAKS.

Mr. Hendricks said:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Bay State Club: I cannot command sufficient language to express my appreciation of your kindness today toward me, and the young friends who have traveled with me. One of the great colleges of Massachusetts — that for more than a hundred years has held its head erect among the educational institutions of the world, did Indiana the honor last winter to invite me, her son, to address a portion at least of her alumni. On the day before yesterday I came to the city where that college is located, to make that address, and wasn't it a matter of interest that one of the sons of Indiana should come to speak upon the cause of education in the grand old state of Massachusetts; (applause,) and wasn't it a high compliment that he should be called upon to address men of his own profession upon the question that grew out of that profession? I felt it really as a very great compliment, and so when I got to New Haven I thought I would come over and see how Harvard did look, and then I still respected Harvard more.

I could understand very well how Massachusetts could send toward the west men of such force and character to form part of the population and to assist in building up the democracy of the west. But, my fellow-citizens, what do you think of it today, when an Indianian came here to Boston and is welcomed by the Bay State club? What does it signify? Not that an Indianian is here, but that one is here who does in truth represent the sentiments that you and yours do believe in, (great applause), and I accept of this wonderful expression of your regard, more as an approval of the opinions and principles for which I have contended than of any personal confidence or esteem that you may have in myself. [Applause.] I thank the chairman of the club, Colonel Taylor, for his reference to the vote in Indiana. I had no doubt about that vote at all. From the time that the banner was thrown out to the winds of heaven, I had no doubt about the result. [Applause.] Although but four years before it had given for Garfield 7,000 majority, I believed that we could carry it 7,000 the other way, and we did it. [Applause.]

I am just as proud to stand before you, the men that fought the battles in Massachusetts, as before the men that made it 7,000 in Indiana. [Applause.] If you had had no unusual troubles to encounter in the canvass of last year, Massachusetts would have gone democratic. [Tremendous applause, and cries of "Right you are."] The troubles in Massachusetts, I think, are passed, [applause], and so I have the highest confidence that at the first struggle between the principles of the opposing influences, Massachusetts will take her place beside Indiana. [Applause].

Mr. Hendricks then again said he had heard a great deal about civil service reform. He said he thought he understood the subject, and told of his appointment to the commissionership of the general land office by President Pierce; how he found the office with 180 clerks and the business four years behind. He became acquainted with the clerks; soon knew clerks who would be able to help him, and very soon those that limped or were unwilling stepped out. [Applause.] Mr. Hendricks continued:

The hickory broom of Jackson that presented democratic reform was the sentiment and emblem of the reform I sought to bring about, and instead of the men who had to step out, there came in young and earnest fellows willing to do work so that by one general order I required that the work done at each desk should be twenty-five per cent more than it had been before. These men came in and took their share readily and cheerfully and cordially, and when I left that office four years afterwards, it was only four months behind in the delivery of patents to the men that had bought land. [Applause.] From four year it came down to four months, and that was as close as it was practicable to bring the work. That, I thought, was reform. I want to tell you another thing, gentlemen. When you men that give your votes at the election and pay your money to the tax gatherer, want to understand the party you point at, by which civil service can be brought about, I will tell you. It is not with the president in detail, it is not with the secretaries in detail, it is with the bureau officer that has to do directly with the work and with the clerks who perform the work. [Applause.] He thought he was safe in saying that he knew that the bureau officers at Washington had already taken steps in that direction; that the people will not be sold out by them. [Applause.] That was his own history about civil service reform. I have only one more suggestion to make, and that is that the election comes on, and I want to say to you that I am going to have no personal interest in it. [Cries of "we donbt it." "Head of the ticket next time."] I do not appear to be connected with it. Last fall, when the convention at Chicago placed me in a position that Indiana had to be carried or I had to be somewhat disgraced, [great applause,] why, I made up my mind that I would not be disgraced —that was all, [applause.] and so when four years from this time—by the way, I am going to come back more frequently than I have heretofore. [Cries of "Good."] You will invite me, won't you? When I come back about four years from this time or a little less than that, say shortly after the next election, when we are going to elect a president the next time, I want to bring from Indiana good cheer to Massachusetts, and then I want to meet the Bay State club and have them tell me; Massachusetts meets Indiana and grasps her by the hand and takes from her the banner which represents the banner of this whole nation for the sake of reform in the public service. [Applause.]

The other speakers were Hon. Chas. Woodbury, Judge Joseph G. Abbott, Mayor O'Brien and Hon. John E. Fitzgerald. Letters were received from a number of gentlemen who were unable to attend, among them Secretary Endicott, Henry M. Whitney and John Boyle O'Reilly.

CARPENTER'S DESPERATION.

A Startling Scene in a New York City Prison.

NEW YORK, June 25,—A carpenter, on the second trial for the murder of his wife by stabbing her to death, this morning cut his throat in the cell in the tombs. The wounds are serious, and the trial was postponed till Monday.

This is the fourth time that Carpenter has attempted suicide. It was noticed by some in the courtroom yesterday that the prisoner had an unusually stolid expression on his face during most of the day, as he sat beside his counsel in a listless sort of way. His defense is insanity, and his manner was supposed to be affected. This morning when the deputy sheriffs went to the tombs to take Carpenter to court, the prisoner was walking on the corridor of the first tier. Keepers Donnelly and O'Brien ordered Carpenter to his cell. He entered and a moment afterward groans were heard coming from the cell. The keepers rushed in and found Carpenter on his knees with his head all covered with blood. He was raised and the prison physician sent for. It was found that the man had cut a small gash in his neck, that he had three trifling wounds on the stomach and a slight cut on his left wrist. None was serious, but several were painful, and Carpenter suffered much loss of blood. He was taken to Bellevue hospital and word was sent to the court that the prisoner would probably be able to appear on Monday. The prisoner, up to a couple of months ago, had his arms manacled to his side. He complained that these hurt him severely, and they were at last removrd. At night however, he was "muffled." The knife with which Carpenter cut himself was an ordinary table knife, rather rusty, and had been lately sharpened. It was not of the kind used in the prison, and how the man secured it is a mystery. It was found after search in the soil pan in the corner of his cell. His cell had been ransacked every day to prevent the keeping of a weapon by the prisoner. Judge Barrett, in adjourning court, stated that the prisoner's act would be thoroughly investigated, and counseled the jurors to not read the newspapers for opinions as to whether Carpenter was insane or feigning.

AN UNREPENTENT MURDERER.

Taylor, Who Will be Hanged July 16, Curses a Priest and Has no Regrets.

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—On the 16th of July Joseph Taylor, one of the most incorrigible convicts in the Philadelphia county prison, will be executed for beating out the brains of Michael Doran, a keeper at the Eastern penitentiary, with a bar of iron on May 31, 1884. The crime was committed while Taylor was serving a sentence for almost beating an American district officer to death. The keeper was a very kind man. A few days ago one of Taylor's present keepers had a narrow escape. He was about to enter Taylor's cell when he noticed the table was missing and discovered the murderer crouching to spring upon him and beat out his brains with a piece of the table.

Not once since his conviction has Taylor shown the slightest regret at his deed, and when the death warrant was read to him he laughed and told the sheriff he would never die on the gallows. He had refused to receive a spiritual adviser, and when a Roman Catholic priest called upon him a few days ago Taylor drove the good man away with the most frightful curses. The authorities at Moyamensing, who have hanged four men within fifteen months, are fearful that Taylor will give them a great deal of trouble when the day of his execution comes. His cell is never visited by less than three keepers at once. He is small in stature, slight in build, has a beardless face and light hair. His strength is extraordinary and his expression mild and childlike, yet shrewd. His eyes are gray and of wonderful brightness. He has been examined by a commission of experts and adjudged sane.

THE JOHNSON-HENRY CASE.

The Jury Hangs on Nine for Acquittal and Three for Conviction.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 25.—In the Johnson-Henry case, at Greenville, the jury failed to agree, and the result was a mistrial. The jury stood nine for acquittal and three for conviction. The case had been in progress for two weeks, and has attracted widspread attention. Senator Voorhees, of Indiana, was leading counsel for the defense.

Captain E. T. Johnson, formerly of Indiana, was arraigned for killing Major Edwin Henry, in Greene county, Tennessee, September 23rd, 1884. Henry had seduced Johnson's wife more than a year before, and Mrs. Johnson committed suicide in Indiana.

Judge Hacker's charge covered fifty minutes, and was elaborate. After specifying the various grades of homicide and punishment generally, he dwelt on the plea of insanity, for the most part agreeing with the law laid down by the prosecution, except that he lightened and modified the ground for the defendant, and was liberal enough in constructing a reasonable doubt as to the duty of the state to establish it where it had been put in issue by the defense. On the point that where insanity is established prior to the killing, it is supposed to continue unless the contrary is established.

It is understood that Senator Voorhees is not well pleased with the charge, though Ingersoll thinks it reasonably fair. Senator Voohees had his argument taken down by a stenographer, and will have it printed in pamphlet form within two weeks.

The jury had not been discharged up to 10 p. m.

TOO MUCH RELIGION.

A Salvation Army Crank Out on a Wholesale Slaughter.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 25.—David Williams, miner, joined the Salvation Army about a month ago. He attended the meetings regularly and religious fervor soon unsettled his mind. He said the Lord had told him in the night that if he wanted to save sinners he would have to make a sacrifice. An innocent babe would answer the purpose. He went to the house of his daughter, Mrs. Jones, and requested to see Mamie, his four-year-old grandchild, whom he took to his home. The crazy salvationist then took her up in the garret and tied her to a table. He returned to the kitchen to get a butcher-knife with which to kill her, but her screams attracted the attention of her grandmother, who ran up-stairs and saved the little girl.

Williams, with the knife in his hand, then ran into the street, striking at every one he met. Reaching his daughter's house, he cut her with the knife, inflicting a severe gash in her arm. The woman made her escape into a room and locked the door. The maniac then stabbed a neighbor's boy, who was sitting on the front stoop. The neighborhood was by this time greatly excited, and four policemen, who had been called, captured the lunatic after much difficulty and put him in jail.

Imprisonment for Life.

NEW YORK, June 25.—Judge Gildersleeve, in the general sessions this morning, accepted the plea of murder in the second degree from David Quinn, who was charged with having shot Ah Mon, a Chinaman, on the afternoon of June 7th. Quinn was drunk at the time, and fancied that Ah Mon and other Chinamen in his company had insulted him. He drew a pistol and shot Ah Mon dead, besides slightly wounding two other Mongolians. Quinn's counsel spoke of the prisoner's previous good character. The district attorney agreed to accept the plea, and the judge sentenced Quinn to imprisonment for life.

THE NEW PREMIER.

MARQUIS SALISBURY'S STATEMENT TO THE LORDS.

He Relates the Anxiety of the Queen for a Settlement of the Crisis—A Conservative Meeting—Earthquake in Scotland—The Reports from the Cholera Districts—Etc.

LONDON, June 25.—In the house of lords this afternoon, the new lord high, chancellor, Sir Hardinge Gifford, took his seat upon the wool sack. It was announced that the bill providing an annuity of 6,000 pounds for the princess Beatrice on her marriage with Prince Henry, of Bettenberg, had received the royal assent. The redistribution of seats bill and several other bills have also received the royal assent.

Sir Henry Drummond Wolff, present member parliament for Portsmouth, who, it was announced yesterday, was about to start for Cairo as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of Great Britain, will go to Egypt, it is now stated, upon a special mission. It is not intended that he shall displace Sir Evelyn Baering, the present diplomatic agent and consul general of Great Britain at Cairo.

A private meeting of the conservative members of parliament was held to-day in the rooms of the Carlton club. There was a small attendance. The presence at the meeting of several conservatives from the province of Ulster, Ireland, is regarded as an indication that the differences recently existing between the English and Irish conservatives has been adjusted. The marquis of Salisbury explained his reasons for taking office, and said that he had already taken counsel concerning the course to adopt for the immediate future. The meeting unanimously approved the action taken by the marquis of Salisbury. It was thought, however, that the liberals ought to have given more definite assurances.

THE STATEMENT TO THE LORDS.

In the house of lords the conservatives occupied the government benches. The marquis of Salisbury, as he entered the house, was received with cheers. In the course if a short address, the marquis said it was not necessary for him to repeat the statement made by Mr. Gladstone last evening in the house of commons. He explained that the queen had informed him that it was her opinion that he might reasonably accept the office upon the assurances given by Mr. Gladstone. Her majesty, at the same time, pointing out the serious injury to the public service of a settlement was longer delayed, or new complications should arise. The marquis said he then, with the unanimous consent of his colleagues, thought it was his duty to assume office, and he hoped that the next four or five weeks would show that he had adopted the proper course. The marquis of Salisbury, in concluding his address, made an appeal for the support of all reasonable men. The house adjourned until the 6th of July. The house of commons adjourned to the same date.

The marquis of Salisbury, referring to the political situation, said he felt sure that all would agree that a timorous policy would be unwise, if not fatal. He reckoned upon the united support of his party. Mr. Northcote expressed entire concurrence with Salisbury on the line of action taken and the plans for the future.

The United Ireland warns Messrs. Dilke and Chamberlain, members of the late Gladstone cabinet, to keep outside of Ireland. It denounces their tour as an "electoral maneuver," and says that it only adds "insult to injury." The speeches of Chamberlain are characterized as "cynical hypocrisy." "As long as the house of lords exists," exclaims the United Ireland, "only a tory government can pass an effective home rule scheme."

Sir Henry Drummond Wolff is instructed to report on the state of the administration and condition of Egypt. Lord Randolph Churchill, who is known to be in favor of the removal of Tawfik Pasha, incites the mission. It is reported that Lord Salisbury, at an interview with Waddington, explained that the mission is intended to facilitate the settlement of the Egyptian question, and that he would be unable, without a report independent of the papers left by the late government, to state the cause of conservative policy.

The queen has conferred the peerage upon Mr. Rowland Winns, parliamentary secretary to the treasury in the new ministry. His title is Baron Stosuld of Nostell. Hon. Aretas Akers Douglas, member of parliament from Kent, will be the new conservative whip. He will be patronage secretary also.

The following additional appointments have been made: Sir Matthew White Ridley, member of parliament, under foreign secretary; William L. Jackson, member of parliament, secretary to the board of trade; Baron McDonald, lord advocate. queen's household—Viscount Lewisham, vice chamberlain; Lord Arthur Hill, comptroller; Viscount Folkestone, treasurer; earl of Dunraven, under secretary for the colonies; the earl of Kriter and the earl of Hapetown lords in waiting.

The queen has conferred knighthood of the garter upon the marquis Northampton and the earl of Sefton; baronies upon Viscount Powers Court, Lord Henly, Sir Robert Collier, and Sir Arthur Hobhouse, and baronetcies upon John Williams, R. A.; George F. Watts, R. A.; Charles Tennant, M. P.; and Thomas Thornehill, M. P. Mr. Shaw Lefevre, ex-postmaster general, has been granted a yearly pension of 1,200 pounds.

The first council of the new ministry will be held to-morrow.

The Daily News says it is able to state that parliament will dissolve as soon as the seats bill goes into effect, and that the election be held in the middle of November.

Cholera in Spain.

MADRID, June 25.—The official reports of new cases of cholera and deaths from cholera in Spain on Wednesday, are as follows: Madrid, nine new cases, eight deaths; city of Valencia, 63 new cases, 25 deaths; in the rest of the province of Valencia 549 new cases, 314 deaths; city of Murcia, 106 new cases, 34 deaths; while in the remaining parts of the province of Murcia there were 208 new cases, 87 deaths; in the province of Castleton de la Plana 59 new cases, 30 deaths; Cian Pazuelos, 6 new cases, 4 deaths; city of Toledo, 5 new cases, 2 deaths; the remainder of the province of Toledo, 15 new cases and 8 deaths. Twelve cases of cholera and one death from cholera have occurred in the military academy of Toledo.

Senor Calavss Del Castillo, president, and Senor Romero Rabbedos, minister of the interior, who started yesterday on a tour of inspection of the cholera infected districts, were received at the railroad station in Mercia by immense crowds of people who manifested the greatest enthusiasm over the arrival of distinguished officials. The camp established for the reception of cholera patients and the quarters of the city inhabited by the poorer classes were visited and carefully inspected.

Divisions in the Republic.

PARIS, June 25.—The Republique Francaise and the Voltaire newspapers admit the existence of divisions in the republican party. They advise, in view thereof, that no programme should be issued, and urge that all efforts be now confined to strengthening the republic itself.

The chamber of deputies has voted the sum of 10,000 francs to defray the expenses of a state funeral, which has been ordered for the remains of Admiral Courbet.

A PEOPLE WITH A PEDIGREE.

The Ameer Claims Descent from Adam and Eve for the Afghans.

LONDON, June 25.—The Pall Mall Gazette prints a hitherto unpublished proclamation of the ameer of Afghanistan to his subjects in 1882. It reviews the history of the Afghans, claiming that they are descended from the lost ten tribes of Israel. It traces their descent from Adam through Jacob, their subjection in Egypt, their deliverance therefrom by Moses, their wanderings in the desert and their settlement in Syria under the ameership of Saul and Solomon to their Babylonian captivity, their release, their wanderings on the hills of Ghour and their final settlement in Afghanistan. It concludes by exhorting the Afghans to trust in God, who will preserve them from their terrible enemy, Russia, who is waiting to devour them.

Lord Randolph Churchill, the new secretary of state for India, arrived early this morning in the India office. He is the first member of the ministry of the marquis of Salisbury to enter upon the duties of his office.

News from the Soudan.

LONDON, June 25.—Rev. Luigi Bonomi, an Italian missionary priest, and for a long time captive in camp of El Mahdi, has made his escape and arrived at Dongola. Father Bonomi reports that all the priests made prisoners during the rising in the Soudan and march of El Mahdi are in good health. The magnitude of the revolt in Kordofan has been very much overrated, says Father Bonomi, but he confirms the truth of the reports that the forces of El Mahdi have been repeatedly defeated by the garrison of Sensar, Father Bonomi states, however, that famine and disease are ravaging and making waste Kordofan.

"Rome and Ireland."

DUBLIN, June 25.—The Freeman's Journal, in an editorial article upon the appointment by the pope of Rev. Dr. Walsh, president of Maynooth college, to be archbishop of Dublin, says: "This appointment links Ireland to Rome in tenfold bonds of sympathy. Rome has been true to Ireland as Ireland has been always true to Rome."

Turkish and Russian Differences.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 25.—Turkey and Russia have amicably settled the differences growing out of the demand made upon the porte by the Russian ambassador for the removal of the governor of Salonica, who had ordered domiciliary visits to the former dragoman of the Russian consul, who was still under Russian protection.

"Sounding" English Policy.

PARIS, June 25.—France and Russia are exchanging views in regard to the policy to be adopted by the new cabinet of the marquis of Salisbury. Mr. Waddington, the French ambassador to London, has already "sounded" the marquis of Salisbury upon the course the British government will take in Egypt.

Ravaged by Disease in Tonquin.

PARIS, June 25.—All accounts received from Tonquin show that the ravages of disease among the French troops there are simply appalling. Three thousand invalided soldiers have been sent home. Three hundred soldiers down with the disease, await transportation. The deaths among the troops are from fifteen to twenty daily.

The Steamer Leaking.

YOKOHOMA, June 25.—The American steamer City of Tokio, Captain Harvey, from San Francisco, June 2d, is ashore near this port. She is leaking, and her cargo has been partly jettisoned. Assistance has been sent to her.

An Earthquake in Scotland.

LONDON, June 25.—There were several slight shocks of an earthquake felt to-day in Inverness shire, Scotland.

THE WRECKED STEAMER.

The Officer who Gave Wrong Orders Commits Suicide.

LIMA, June 25.—Advices from the south today say that Mollendo is stocked with goods awaiting the opening of the Arequipa line for transportation to Bolivia.

The steamship Puno arrived yesterday with fifty-three survivors from the wreck of the Italia. There are seventy persons missing, and as far as known only eight passengers were saved, while only one of the crew was lost. The greatest confusion ensued immediately after the vessel struck. The shock strained the vessel so that the doors of the cabins could not be opened, thus imprisoning the passengers. The captain was not on deck at the time of the accident. The disaster was due to wrong orders given by the third officer, who has since committed suicide. Great credit is bestowed on the heroic efforts of the purser to save the passengers. The purser's boat was swamped when the steamer sunk. The passengers who escaped to land underwent fearful suffering before they reached an estate where succor was promptly afforded.

LOUISIANA FINANCES.

The Board Seeking Two Banks as Fiscal Agents.

BATON ROUGE, June 25.—The state board of liquidation met here to-day. Governor McEnery, Treasurer Burke, Speaker Ogden, Auditor Steel and Messrs. S. H. Kennedy and Charles E. Black, were present. In response to the circular of the committee recently sent to the bank of New Orleans, several communications were received by the board relative to the fiscal agency of the state. The board then adjourned to meet in New Orleans to-morrow at noon, when it is probable two banks will be selected to act as fiscal agents. The board hopes to effect a more favorable arrangement than under the existing contract as to the money advanced by the fiscal agents. The delay in settling the matter of the fiscal agency will in no way interfere with the prompt payment of the interest on the bonded debt, which falls due July 1st.

THE BROKEN BANK

Which Served as a General Accommodation Bureau.

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—The revelations through the examination being made of the management of the Shakamaxon bank are astonishing. It is said there will scarcely be $50,000 of the wreck found with which to meet the obligations. It is also given out that the disclosures show that the affairs of the bank have been managed in the most reckless manner. The statement is made that checks were drawn without date, loans made without security, and that prominent politicians were continually favored. It is further said that half a dozen individuals profited by the bank, and that its failure is due to them. Many of the depositors' books have not been settled up for three years.

The Strike in Toronto.

TORONTO, Ont., June 25.—Four or five thousand men are now involved in the builders-laborers' strike. The bricklayers union met in Dufferin hall last night, and decided to call out every man to-day who is served by scabs, who will not even accept material from apprentices, and they are called out of the sewers where they are being served by the corporation laborers of sewer contractor. This has never before been done here, and the strike is hard on the municipal contractors and corporation employes. It is believed that this action will end the strike, although the morter builders may try to supply men to fill the places of the bricklayers and stone masons.

A Grocer Assigns.

STAUNTON, Va., June 25.—D. W. Lands, a grocer, has assigned. The assets and liabilities are not stated.

THE DAY IN MACON.

NEWS NOTES OF INTEREST FROM THE CENTRAL CITY.

A Dispute Over Veach, the Long Expected Pitcher, Ends in a Rough and Tumble Fight—The Alexander Free School—Mount De Sales Academy—News in General.

MACON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—Miller and Veach, the two baseball players who were signed as pitchers by the directors of the Macon nine sometime ago, have not yet joined the nine. They have been expected to arrive here for a week or two past, and their strange delay has been the subject of much comment. This morning it was reported that Veach reached the city last night, but the report was untrue.

In the composing room of the Evening News, this afternoon, John Pickett and Oliver Wilder, two young printers, were discussing the game played between Atlanta and Macon yesterday. In the course of the discussion, Wilder remarked that as Veach had arrived, Atlanta would be defeated again to-day. Picket said that Veach had not arrived. This contradiction led to a heated dispute as to the whereabouts of the missing pitcher. Both became angry, and finally they exchanged blows and then engaged in a rough and tumble fight. Printers' material was scattered in all directions, and it seemed for a while that the Evening News would be reduced to a state of pie; but the foreman interposed and the fight was stopped. No arrests were made.

Veach has reached an unenviable fame in Macon by his delay in joining the nine, and Miller shares it with him.

The Alexander Free School.

THURSDAY'S PROGRAMME OF THE CLOSING EXERCISES OF THE SPRING TERM OF THE SCHOOL.

MACON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—The closing exercises of the Alexander free school were begun this morning. A fine audience assembled in the handsome school building on the corner of Second and Pine streets to listen to the recitations and speeches. The pupils all acquitted themselves well, reflecting credit on their teachers, Professor Charles Lane, the principal, and Miss Flora Smith, the assistant.

The programme was as follows:

Nisbet Wright, "Cataline's Defiance;" Mamie Hurley, "Johnnie at Table;" Fritz Jones, "The Nightingale and the Glow Worm;" Mamie Bolinger, "A Sad Case;" John Cheves, "Who Would be a Boy Again;" May Belle Flanders, "Troublesome Neighbors;" Sam McKay, "The American Eagle;" Mamie Lewis, "The Secret;" Albert Gresham, "Total Annihilation;" Julia Sailors, "Aunt Tabitha;" Arthur Wrigley, "All quiet along the Potomac To-night;" Katie Kendall, "Popping Corn;" Edward Kahn, "My Girl with the Calico Dress;" Annie Wheeler, and others, "Fawn-footed Nannie;" John Goodwyn, "The irrepressible Boy;" Hattie Morris, "The Charming Woman;" Anderson Clark, "The Sword of Lee;" Morgie Flanders, "Troubles of a Twin;" Katie Kendall and others, "Birds of Passage;" Everett Coleman, "Battle Flag at Sherandoah;" Henrietta Spriutz, "The Knight's Toast."

To-morrow morning, the pupils of the higher classes will have their exhibition.

Afterthoughts About Mount de Sales.

MACON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—In the report of Mt. de Sales commencement your correspondent was not able to note fully the striking features of that commendable performance. It entirely surpassed all preceding commencements of that excellent institution. The bearing and graceful carriage of the young ladies, to say nothing of their cultured singing and the distinct enunciation of their recitations, spoke volumes for the training of the good and holy sisters. Prof. Daley's address was couched in language classical and eloquent and brought down the house in well deserved applause. His allusion to Archbishop Gross was in feeling taste, and became one who enjoyed the closest friendship of his grace in the past. His advice to the young lady graduates was worthy of the elequent archbishop whom he so gracefully eulogised; and in every particular it was of the highest merit. Father McCarthy and Rev. George O'Brien presided; Very Rev. C. C. Pretlerger, Rev. George McCamillo, Very Rev. D. Bazin, Rev. Clifford and several other clergymen attended the exercises.

The Superior Court.

MACON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—The superior court was occupied all of to-day in the trial of the case of Lasley vs. the city of Macon, suit for damages. Two years ago Lasley stepped into a hole caused by a broken sewer, near the union passenger depot, and broke his leg. The suit has been before the court several times before.

A Hunt that Ends in a Fight.

MACON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—Last Tuesday night Charles McCravy, Frank McCravy and Tom Weeks, of East Macon, took three dogs and started out on a coon hunt. The dogs made a savage attack upon James Howell, who happened to be in a field in which the hunt was going on, and he threatened to shoot them. This angered the hunters and they jumped on Howell and gave him a terrible beating. The police arrested Frank McCravy, but the other two escaped by leaving the city. At recorder's court this morning Frank McCravy was required to deposit five dollars collateral for his appearance on Monday.

Personal and Otherwise.

MACON, June 25.—[Special.]—Alderman J. W. McCrary and wife, of Butler, are spending a few days in Macon. They are staying at the Edgarton house.

J. D. Buttolph, of Marietta, spent to day in the city.

John J. Hammond, of Savannah, was in Macon to-day.

J. E. Reese, of Decatur, is in the city.

A. H. Lane, Jr., of Valdosta, spent to-day here.

E. B. Ezell, of Eatonton, was in the city to-day, attending the meeting of the directors of the Macon cotton seed oil mills.

Hon. L. L Lamar and Max Altman, of Hawkinsville, registered at Brown's hotel this morning.

J. A. Simmerman, of Augusta, is in the city.

W. N. Fleetwood, Jr., of Hawkinsville, was at the Lanier house to-day.

Mr H. L. Jewett, of Macon, has probably the finest collection of ancient and modern coins in the United States. It is acknowled by competent judges to be much better than that of the United States government at the Philadelphia mint. Mr. Jewett has been engaged in its collection for many years, and its value is priceless.

FROM ATHENS TO COLUMBUS.

The People of Athens, Aroused Over the Subject.

ATHENS, June 25.—[Special.]—A meeting of the citizens of Athens was held to-day in the council chamber to discuss the question of the proposed railroad from Athens to Columbus. The meeting was held in response to a call by the mayor. Captain C. G. Talmage, presided.

Mr. T. L. Grant gave an account of the action of a recent meeting held in Madison, Ga., in regard to the building of a road from Athens to Columbus, and stated that the committee appointed at that meeting, consisting of representative men from Morgan, Jasper and Oconee counties, would visit Athens on Monday, June 29th, to confer with the citizens in regard to the contemplated road.

On motion of Captain Burnett committees from the citizens were appointed to receive and make preparations for the entertainment of the visitors.

It is expected that the meeting of the committees from the several counties will result in some direct movement for the new road.

George D. Thomas has just returned from a visit to Columbus, and reports that city as being heartily in favor of railway connections with Athens; that while they would prefer to tap Atlanta, that line is very doubtful, and it will require a subscription of $300,000 from Columbus to secure the road.

Bradfield's Barbecue.

LAGRANGE, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—At Broughton's bridge, four miles from town, quite a party of gentlemen enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. E. R. Bradfield, our prince of merchants, who had prepared for them a magnificent barbecue. Spread upon an ample table, under the shade of the trees by the banks of Beach creek, twenty-five representative men of the town, including the mayor and a delegation from the city council, regaled themselves in genuine southern style at a genuine Georgia barbecue. Such a delightful break into the monotony of the summer dullness is highly appreciated by Mr. Bradfield's host of friends.

COLUMBUS YESTERDAY.

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—One of the pleasant events that occur but seldom in a life-time took place to-night at the residence of Mr. Matt O'Brien. Quite a number of citizens gathered there, and through Mr. Thomas J. Chappell presented Mr. Matt O'Brien with a handsome double-case gold watch on the occasion of his departure from this city to take up his residence in Atlanta. Mr. Chappell expressed in the most appropriate language the high esteem in which Mr. O'Brien is held by the citizens of Columbus, and the regret which they feel at his departure Mr. O'Brien was taken quite by surprise and expressed his thanks with considerable emotion. After the presentation the guests were invited to partake of refreshments and all entered into the full enjoyment of the occasion. It is useless to say that Mr. O'Brien and his estimable family, made it pleasant for all. The rendition of several beautiful songs by Miss May O'Brien was especially enjoyable. Mr. O'Brien still preserves with great care, a cane presented to him in 1872 by the Atlanta police force.

At a meeting of the Columbus lodge No. 67, I.O. O. F., the following were elected officers: C. M. Kinsel, noble grand; D. R. Bize, vice grand; Geo. O. Berry, recording and permanent secretary; L. G. Schuessler, treasurer; Wm. Meyer, warden; L. P. Aenchbacker, commander; L. G. Schuessler, grand representative, and J. F. Clegg, alternate.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Johnson celebrated the sixth anniversary of their marriage to-night by entertaining, in a most enjoyable manner, quite a number of their friends.

The closing exercises of the grammar and primary departments of the Columbus public schools for whites, took place to-day. Committees of trustees and the city council, and a large number of visitors attended them. The diplomas were delivered to the following young ladies in Professor Battle's room: Carrie Abbott, Geraldine Battle, Lyra Beach, Eva Betz, Ida Brown, Gena Brown, Estella Browing, Maude Burnett, Minnie Burrass, Allie Cameron, Amoret Coleman, Fannie Dixon, Katie Fee, Lizzie Hunter, Fannie Jackson, Lillie Jordon, Jennie King, Eugenia Park, Maggie Pomeroy, Bennie Renfroe, Bell Roberts, Augusta Schnell, Carrie Simmons, Ivey Williams, Effie Williams, Katie Wood, Mattie Wooldridge, Geraldine Worrell. Lionel C. Levy addressed the graduating class, and his speech was a perfect gem. At the boys school diplomas were delivered to the following in Professor Bartlett's room: T. K. Peabody, J. E Floyd, J. J. Johnson, J. W. Jones, A. J. Day, Robert Bize, Paul Clark and E. B. Wells.

Jno. Peabody addressed the graduating class and made a most practical and sensible speech. The prize for general excellence in Professor Bartlett's room was awarded to Theo. Petri. The exercises in the other room were similar to those of previous years and were quite interesting. The closing exercises of the colored schools will take place to-morrow.

Professor G. A. Granbury has resigned the presidency of the Reynolds High school which he has been so successfully conducting.

Tonight Sherman Smith, colored, entered the residence of Mrs. Jones, corner of Forsyth and Baldwin streets, and robbed a trunk of $12.60. Policemen Adams and Duncan were notified of the burglary and soon succeeded in capturing the burglar and recovered every cent of the money.

The colored drayman of Rumsey Bros. had his leg broken to-day.

The closing exercises of the Orphans' Asylum school will take place to-morrow,

The remains of Mr. W. H. Tice, who died in Chattanooga, were brought to this city and interred to-day.

The Fourth of July in Dalton.

DALTON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—The citizens of Dalton and Whitfield county will celebrate the Fourth of July with a farmers' barbecue and speeches by Commissioner Henderson, Mr. Livingston and Professor White, all of the state department. The object of the town and county is to create a demonstration in favor of getting one of the experimental farms to be supported by the appropriation of the state, located in this immediate section. The occasion will also be attended by the military companies from Chattanooga the Chicamauga Guards, commanded by Captain Shelton and the Cadets, commanded by Captain M. B. Ochs The Cleveland silver cornet band will also be present. Six baseball clubs respectively from Athens, Charleston, Cleveland and Chattanooga, Tennessee, and the clubs from Cartersville and Calhoun, Ga., will play at the baseball park for the amusement of the crowd. Foot races, walking matches, sack and wheelbarrow races will be held for prizes to be awarded by the executive committee consisting of Messrs. Sam Berny, John Black, Alonzo Smith, Frank Reynolds Cal Bryant and E. E. Brown.

Meeting in Jonesboro.

JONESBORO, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—A meeting will be held in Jonesboro tonight to take in consideration the organization of a real estate improvement company.

AMATEUR DETECTIVES.

How a Job was Put Up on Some Country Boys.

From the Lumpkin, Ga., Independent.

In the Providence neighborhood there has lately developed a taste for horse racing on Saturdays and amateur detective work at odd times among some of the enterprising young farmers of that section. Last week the news reached Providence that a negro had murdered his wife in Taylor county, and the boys who had read much of the adventures of Detective Sleuth, determined to try their skill in tracing the blood-stained murderer, should an opportunity ever offer itself. A practical joker of the neighborhood, being aware of the ambition of two of the boys, caused a letter to reach them giving a description of the fleeing murderer and asking the aid of the Providence detectives in making the capture, stimulating the interest in the matter by offering a reward of $250. The plows were quickly abandoned and left in the cotton rows, to show where the boys had quit work, and a consultation was held. It did not take Sam and Bill long to decide that an itinerant negro showman who had passed through that section of the country was the man wanted, as his features tallied with the description of the murderer which a brother detective had sent them. Their race horses were soon saddled and they met at the country store, where they procured a regular battery of field artillery, which they buckled around them, and, waving the mysterious letter t atheir astonished friends who saw them leave so suddenly, shouted, "This will bring us a great name and the best horse in Stewart county."

They were gone three days and made a thorough search through Russell, Barbour, Henry and Dale counties, Alabama, but never managed to get the drop on the murderer. In the meantime they began to run short of funds and were compelled to recross the Chattahoochee and turn their weary steeds toward the homestretch at Providence. When they reached home they were overwhelmed with questions about their adventures in the wilds of Alabama, but the detectives were sullen and non-committal. Their crops had become grassy and they failed to win the expected fame, nor did they get the money with which to buy the coveted race horse. The secret finally leaked out and they began to realize that some one had worked a deep laid scheme upon them in order to get them out of the county. The detectives swear vengeance, and unless somebody can manage to get up a picnic or Sunday-school celebration in that section to harmonize matters, there is going to be a row of the biggest kind, as the detectives are armed to the teeth, and will find it easier to catch the joker than they did the murderer.

Caught by an Octopus.

A diver who was trying to find pearls off the Alaska coast, found none, but found himself, all of a sudden, in the grasp of an ugly octopus with arms twenty-seven feet long. Such an experience is rare; but there are thousands of people who are caught by dyspepsia, which is quite as bad. An octopus hates to let go. So does dyspepsia. Brown's Iron Bitters settles dyspepsia, and makes it lose its cruel grip. Mrs. Schmidt and her daughter, of 136 Conway street, Baltimore, were both cured of dyspepsia by the use of Brown's Iron Bitters.

COASTWISE SHIPPING.

A REAL ESTATE MOVEMENT IN SAVANNAH.

A Dangerous Freak of an Insane Woman—A Savannah Boom—Commencement Exercises of the Schools—Preparations to Celebrate the Glorious Fourth—The Flames.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—Shipping merchants and lumber men here are disgusted at the dispatch sent out from Brunswick, to the effect that the ship owners had formed a combination not to accept a charter at any price on the south Atlantic coast for July. A prominent shipping merchant said to-day that the vessels are now offering for July, loading considerably in excess of the requirements of the shippers, and at all Georgia, Florida and South Carolina ports, vessels are in full supply and are freely accepting rates at only a fraction over those of last winter. The difficulty is not in finding vessels, but finding sufficient freight for those that offered. The story of the present prospective scarcity coastwise, (that is American) tonnage, could only have been originated as a sell, and was swallowed by some one grossly ignorant of all the facts in the case.

The Isle of Hope club opens its fourth annual regatta to-morrow with twenty-one yachts in the fleet.

Dangerous Freak of Insanity.

OXFORD, Ala., June 25.—[Special.]—Mrs. Burk, the aunt of Mrs. Manning, who, with her husband, recently moved to this place from Lineville, Ala., in a fit of insanity tried to kill her niece and wanted to destroy herself. She jumped out of a window a considerable distance from the ground, and lay for a time as if dead, but proved only to be stunned. Mr. Manning being absent from home, Mrs. Manning gave the alarm and several neighbors came to her relief. She is a very small woman, but in her insane frenzy it took two stout men to restrain her. She was guarded all night, and steps are being taken for her confinement in the asylum.

A Boom in Savannah.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—There has probably never been inaugurated in Savannah any movement which has been so immediately and universally popular as the Chatham Real Estate and Improvement company. The stock of the association, which was only organized Monday last, has bounded right along, and already 3,200 shares, or 200 more than was originally intended, have been taken. This represents a working capital now of $160,000. The directors to-day decided to keep the books open until the 1st of July.

Marriage in Savannah.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—Miss Ellie Lou Axson, daughter of the late Rev. Dr. Axson, of this city, and Mr. Wilson, son of Rev. J. R. Wilson, of Wilmington, N.C., were married last evening at the residence of Rev. Dr. I. S. Axson, pastor of the Independent Presbyterian church. The ceremony was performed by the groom's father and bride's grandfather.

Accident to a Doctor.

BUCHANAN, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—Dr. F. R. Smith was thrown from his buggy Tuesday afternoon and seriously hurt. He had started to call on one of his patients, when just out of town he heard from the person he was going to see, and concluded to come back to town, and in turning round his horse became frightened and overturned the buggy. Mrs. Smith, who was with him, received no injury.

Lightning in Conyers.

CONYERS, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—We were visited this evening by a severe thunder storm, accompanied with vivid flashes of lightning. The peals at times were almost deafening. Messrs. J. H. Almond, Son & Co.'s store-room was struck by lightning, but no damage done. Some of our citizens were considerably shocked, being in close proximity to the path of the bolts.

Hearn High School.

CAVE SPRING, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—The commencement exercises of Hearn High school, a subcollegiate department of Mercer university, Professor F. W. Glover, principal, and of Mrs. Undine Lane's seminary, closed Tuesday night.

The sermon of Rev. Dr. Hatcher, of Atlanta, is highly spoken of by all who heard it. The opperetta, "Red Riding Hood's rescue," rendered by pupils of both schools, deserves especial mention. Miss Belle Brown, of Sparta, Ga., has charge of the music department and does her work well, too much cannot be said in her praise. The entire community is pleased with Professor Glover and Mrs. Lane, and the general verdict is that better selections could not be made. The Wesleyan institute, Professor Stewart in charge, will close its exercises to-night with an entertainment that will be pleasing to the community.

Clayton Institute.

JONESBORO, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—The exercises of Clayton institute closed yesterday. The success of this institution in the first annual commencement has surpassed the most sanguine expectations. Yesterday an address was delivered by Rev. W. R Foote, of Atlanta, the orator of the occasion to a large and appreciative audience. Then came presentation of prizes by Rev. W. D. Schea, of Jonesboro, which closed the scene.

The Athens Fair Association.

ATHENS, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—The fair association has purchased the land for the fair grounds and will commence putting up the buildings very soon. It is not yet settled whether they can be ready to hold a fair this year or not. The association will do their best to give a fair some time in October if possible.

Two More Senior Places.

ATHENS, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—The list of senior speakers in the university has been completed by the addition of two names, making a total of eleven places awarded. The two gentlemen awarded places to-day were J. L. Gross, Thomson, Georgia, A. Hull, Savannah, Georgia.

Fire in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—Irvin & Callan's three-story brick flour mill was burned last night about 1 o'clock. Loss about $12,000; insured for $6,700.

Corn in Union.

BLAIRSVILLE, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—Corn is selling here at $1.25 per bushel, and very scarce at that. Many of our people will no doubt suffer for bread. The present corn crop is the most promising one we have had in many years. Wheat crop an entire failure.

A Masonic Barbecue.

CARROLLTON, Ga., June 25—[Special.]—The Masons gave a barbecue here the 24th, inst., in honor of St. John's day. Colonel H. M. Reid, of Fairburn, was the speaker of the day. His speech was a perfect gem, replete with beautiful thoughts and elegant diction. Several other interesting speeches were made by local speakers.

Thunder in Barnesville.

BARNESVILLE, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—There was a slight thunder storm here yesterday. The lightning struck Mayor Murphey's house and did considerable damage. No one was hurt.

Deaths in Georgia.

LEXINGTON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—Mrs. Obadian Stevens, a most estimable lady of our county, died after a short illness, last Monday. She was an aged lady and loved by all who knew her.

Mrs. W. I. Tuck, of Winterville, died Wednesday morning at eight o'clock, after a lingering illness of several weeks.

STATE SPECIALS CONDENSED.

The Perry manufacturing company began to make curry combs this week. Their present capacity is 100 dozen per week.

Several members of company C, First Georgia regiment, will attend the reunion in Atlanta on 22d of July.

Rev. J. L. Lyons, superintendent American Bible society, delivered an interesting lecture on "The Holy Land" Tuesday night in the Baptist church, of Perry.

Barnesville is rapidly filling up with commencement visitors. Gordon institute will crown herself with new glory at the coming commencement.

The Barnesville Mail will run a daily for the benefit of its readers—the general public—during commencement week.

The R. E. Lee Institute.

THOMASTON, June 25.—[Special.]—The commencement exercises of R. E. Lee institute began last Sunday. By eleven o'clock a large crowd had gathered in the college chapel. The stage was tastefully decorated with paintings, flowers and evergreens. The songs for the occasion had been selected by Miss Susie Bonnell. The first piece sung by the choir was the hymn, "O, Be Joyful in the Lord." Rev. Thomas Timmons, of Sparta, then read a lesson from the Bible, after which the congregation joined with the choir in singing "Coronation" hymn. Rev. R. F. Goodman offered an eloquent prayer, and then was sung the song, "The heavens declare thy glory, Lord."

Rev. J. M. Lowery, of the North Georgia conference, who had been invited to preach the commencement sermon, selected for his text the forty-second verse of the tenth chapter of the gospel according to St Luke:

"But one thing is needful; and Mary hath chosen that good part, which shall not be taken away from her."

On the conclusion of the sermon, Rev. B. E. L. Timmons lead in earnest prayer, after which the choir, in clear, full voice, sang the closing hymn, "Jesus Comes," and the benediction was pronounced.

Monday, the prize declamation occurred, and the successful contestants were Messrs. W. P. Stinson and B. B. Alford. Messrs. J. S. Wilcox and G. A. Weaver, Jr., received honorable mention.

Monday night the primary and intermediate department, gave an interesting entertainment, consisting of speeches, recitations, music and songs. Prizes were awarded to Miss Delia McKenney in the primary, and Miss Susie McCroty in the intermediate department. Miss Lizzie Mitchell received the medal for best deportment and scholarship.

Tuesday morning came off the prize recitations. To Miss Estelle Norris was awarded the prize. Miss Julia Thompson received honorable mention.

Tuesday evening occurred the entertainment by the Polymnian and Thalian societies. These exercises were very enjoyable and reflected great credit upon the societies.

Wednesday, regular commencement day, the programme consisted of essays and speeches, delivery of prizes by Rev. R. T. Goodrum, and the commencement address by Hon K. J. Warren.

All the exercises of the commencement were well rendered, reflecting credit upon the pupils and the teacher. Professor G. A. Harrison, who is at the head of the school, is one of the best men in the state, and his assistants are excellent teachers. Miss Susie J. Bonnell, who has charge of the music department, is a most excellent teacher, and is loved by her pupils and popular with her patrons. Her class furnished splendid music for all the various programmes of the commencement. The school is increasing in prosperity, and a large attendance is expected next term.

Gordon County University.

CALHOUN, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—The closing exercises of Gordon County university reached a finale last night, after a continuation of three days. The programme was a brilliantly executed and arranged one and fully merited the continuous applause elicited from the large and appreciative audience present. The rendition of every song, declamation and essay demands special mention, but space forbids. The graduating class were: Miss Nida Boaz, Miss Lucille Malone, Miss Jennie Ellis, Miss Minnie Kindred, and Mr. Frank L. Malone. Miss Nida Boaz read an essay, "Subjects;" Miss Jennie Ellis read an essay, "Jerusalem;" Miss Minnie Kindred read an essay, "Excelsior;" Miss Lucile Malone read an essay "Unhistoric Acts," all of which were exceptionally fine and elicited the enthusiastic applause of the large and intelligent audience. The valedictory address of Mr. Frank L Malone was surprising to his many friends and the audience; it was logical in reasoning, and touchingly pathetic in bidding his preceptors farewell.

The diplomas were delivered to the class by Professor Landrum, accompanied by an expression of his best wishes and much good advice

The medals were delivered by Colonel O. N. Starn.

The literary address of Rev. J. S. Hillhouse, of Ringgold, Georgia, was characteristic. He selected as a theme the life history of the great statesman and patriot, John C. Calhoun, after whom our town takes its name.

The Thomasville Commencement.

THOMASVILLE, June 25.—[Special.]—The chapel of Young Female college was literally packed and jammed, notwithstanding the extreme warm weather, to witness the last appearance of the sweet girl graduate. The exercises were, as usual, interesting; and they were certainly appreciated, as the large audience will testify. The commencement closed with a musicale.

A FAMOUS ACADEMY.

Seventy Sixth Commencement of St. Joseph's Female Academy.

EMMITSBURG, Md., June 25.—[Special.]—When, in March last, the "fire fiend" was raging war upon the cluster of magnificent buildings comprising the "mother home" of the sisters of charity of the United States, and the temples of learning which have rendered famous this veteran academy, few of the inmates, and other witnesses then hoped to participate this year in the customary scenes of joy and gladness which invest the annual distribution of prizes. But, thanks to a mercifui Providence and willing hands, the conflagration was confined to some minor structures, and hence to-day was not only one of thanksgiving, but great delight to all who assembled in and around the unimpaired grand salon of the academic buildings. The exercises were replete with evidences of careful study and training, and reflected alike great credit upon pupils and teachers. The exhibition of literature, art and music, comprised a programme of rare excellence and each deserving young lady modestly and gracefully accepted her well earned laurels from the hands of his grace, Archbishop Gibbons. She justly felt proud of the honor of graduating from St. Josephs.

A marked feature of the occasion was the rendition of "Landate Nomen Dominie," a musical gem of great difficulty most ably executed. This and other highly classical productions, was followed by a concerted "potpourri" of the popular airs of the day which elicited deserved recognition. The display of wax works, paintings, embroidery and other hand works evidenced a degree of skill, taste and application of which the authors may well feel proud. A lyrical valedictory by Miss A. B. Corry, of Maryland, voiced in sentiment and affecting strains the sad "farewell" of the authoress and her sister graduates, as well as all the other young ladies, who seemed loath to part from the scenes of the expiring session and the affectionate siste s, to whom they are naturally much attached.

The next session begins in September.

Secret Society Matters.

OXFORD, Ala., June 25.—[Special.]—A grand Masonic jubilee and public installation of officers takes place at White Plains, fifteen miles northeast of this place. Quite a number of members of the lodge here went, accompanied by the Oxford cornet band.

Hartwell lodge No. 101 A. F. M. Oxford, Ala., at its last regular communicatton elected the following officers for the next Masonic year:

J. F. Graham, W. M.; A. Moses, S. W.; B. D. Williams, M. D., J. W.; Rev. T. P. Gwin, chaplain; D. P. Gunnels, treasurer: T. M. Draper, secretary; T. A. Turner, S. D.; R. W. Reed, J. P.; W. T. Dodd, Tyler.

HOME TESTIMONY.

Prof. H. C. White

STATE CHEMIST.

UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA, Chemical Laboratory.

Office of State Chemist,

ATHENS, Ga., June 26, 1884.

I have been familiar for a number of years with the general character of Prof. Horsford's phosphate preparations. Recent examinations made some of the "Acid Phosphate" and "Bread Preparation," show them to be exactly what is claimed for them in the circulars accompanying the packages. The "Acid Phosphate" is a concentrated solution in water of Acid Phosphate of Lime. The "Bread Preparation" is a mixture of Acid Phosphate lime, carbonate of soda and flour. When mixed with water, carbonic acid gas is liberated and a double phosphate of lime and soda is formed and remains in the bread when baked. In ordinary cream of tartar baking powders the substance left in the bread after "raising" is rochelle salts—a double tartrate of soda and potash. The phosphates are useful mineral substances in animal nutrition and growth, the tartrates are not.

In my opinion the Phosphatic Powder is, therefore, preferable to the others, so far as healthfulness is concerned. H. C. WHITE.

Mr. Bonner lives in Macon and no one is better known than he. Strangers can rely upon the statement he makes:

In August, 1881, it was discovered that my son's wife was in the last stages of consumption. She was coughing incessantly, and times would discharge quantities of pus from her lungs, could not sleep or retain anything on her stomach, and we thought it only a question of time when life would be compelled to give way to the fell destroyer, After all other remedies failed, we got

The Cartersville Courant, in giving a sketch "Uncle Billy Cowan," gives an incident of Indi life, which will bear reproduction. Uncle Bil was born in 1806, in Jackson county, subsequent removed to Walton where he was married, a later settled in DeKalb, where he was at one ti deputy sheriff of that county, and also justice the peace for six or seven years. While he w acting as deputy sheriff the Indians massacre the Boman family near Pine Log. An Indian w arrested and put in jail at Decatur. The sheri Dr. Powell, started with the murderer to Cassvill where Judge Hooper was expected to try the case. When he reached Cassville the court for some rea son was postponed. On the way back, at Alltoona, the Indian escaped, and the sheriffs were out a hundred dollars for his capture the second time At that time politics run very high. The Trou and Clark—state rights and union parties—we very bitter and both had to fight for power in th county. The escape of the Indian was a prete for a fierce attack in the next county election a Uncle Billy was beaten two votes in a large, po ulous county. In 1841 he moved to Cobb coun and is still a resident, near Acworth. Of t children only three survive—two in Texas, a one, Frank Cowan, is one of Cobb's most ente prising, upright and intelligent farmers.

The Rome Courier gives fuller details of the ki of Allen Pasco, mention of which has be made heretofore in the dispatches:

On the morning of the 6th of last April t storehouse of Messrs. Vincent & Cunningha which is located about fifteen miles from town Briceville, on the East Tennessee, Virginia a Georgia railroad, and near the county line of Po was found broken open. Upon an investigati it was found that goods to the amount of ab $100 had been extracted from the store, which co sisted of such articles as clothing, boots, sho hats, etc. This was the second time the store h been robbed and various other depredations h been committed in the neighborhood rece ly, and consequently the people the vicinity were wrought to a high pitch of excitement. It was believ that a gang of thieves infested the neighborhoo which is about to prove to be the case. Officers the law quietly set to work to ferret out the do of these evils and to bring that to face justice. A though they worked for some time without ava they persevered on until suspicion pointed amo others toward Joe Lampton and Allan Pasco, t negroes of desperate characters. Armed wi search warrants the officers invaded the houses these negroes, and there found a number of ar cles of the stealing, as well as those s len from other places. Lampton was imm diately arrested and brought to the county jail Floyd county, where he confessed to being an a cessory to the crime, and gave the names of t entire party, five in all, three of whom are still large. Getting an inkling to the turn affairs we taking, Pasco skipped out. Hearing that he h gone towards Dalton, Deputy Sheriff Jenkins Mo day morning wrote to the officials in that neig borhood with a description, and asking them arrest and hold him if found. Yesterday morni the sheriff of Catoosa county spotted his man the town of Ringgold and proceeded at once to rest him. Pasco showed fight, and in the stru gle between the two men a bullet was fired fr the pistol of the officer and bedded itself in t body of Pasco. He was then handcuffed and c ried to jail, where his wound was attended to. failed to learn the nature of the wound, a therefore cannot tell whether not it is serious. dispatch was received by the sheriff here to co after Pasco, and accordingly Deputy Sheriff J kins will leave this morning for the scene of t late struggle.

THROUGH THE STATE.

THE HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY IN GEORGIA.

A Good Time at a Honey Gathering in Irwin County—A Chase After a Horse Thief—The Killing of Allen Pasco—A Colored Bigamist in Dooly County—Other Items—Etc.

The 52d Georgia regiment will have a reunion in Dahlonega July 4th.

The peach crop of McDuffie county will be one of the largest ever harvested.

Mr. J. A. Langston, of McDuffie, is exhibiting an egg 8½ inches in diameter and 7¾ in circumference.

An Irwin county writer thus describes a honey-gathering in that county:

In response to the invitation people began to gather on the spot, and at the appointed hour, two o'clock, eighty five persons were gathered and the work of taking the honey commenced. The four trees being on a spot not much larger than three acres, it was not any trouble to move from one tree to another and by five o'clock every tree was cut and relieved of its sweet contents, of which there was an abundance, every tree but the last being exceptionally good, so much so that everybody had enough and a plenty was left. The bees were in a very good humor and but very few were stung, but a very good reason that no more were stung than was is because many were very backward, but as quick as those more brave conquered the little enemy they were ready to stand their own ground.

Mr. T. J. Moss, of Mableton, has a half cent United States coin in his possession of the date of 1808. It is as large as a silver quarter.

The annual meeting of the Sunday-school association will be held at the Marietta camp ground, Tuesday July 21st.

Marietta Journal: We are glad to learn that the well known army correspondent of the Georgia press during the war, and now resident of Marietta, "P. W. A.," will reprint his letters in book form at an early day. This will be gratifying news to the people of this state and the south. We hear further that the author will devote an additional volume to "Georgia during the war and the reconstruction period." The part taken by the state in furnishing troops and supplies, and especially the cotton transactions of the state authorities, will be discussed. The attitude of the people during the dark days of reconstruction, and the course pursued by public men and politicians, will also be treated of at length, and the truth of history vindicated. The publication of this work will doubtless revive the discussion of the topics alluded to, but sooner or later they must receive the attention of the historian, and this is probably as good a time as any other The part played by the state, both during and immediately after the war, has not been treated with any degree of fullness or historical exactness, and the people will be glad to have the work done fearlessly and in a judicial spirit.

A large black bear was killed on the Cohuttah mountains by a party of hunters last week.

On the 18th, while Captain L. N. Tinsley and Mr. V. L. Ban, of Whitfield county, were riding in a buggy a few miles south of Dalton, they discovered a large rattlesnake in the road in front of them. A battle at once began, and after a free use of rocks and sticks, the reptile was dispatched, though it fought fiercely to the last. The snake measured forty two inches in length, and had eight rattles.

Jerry McKenzie, a colored man, is held in Dooly county jail for bigamy many times repeated.

Whortleberries are in active demand in Barnesville, where they command 25 cents a quart. A picker can gather six quarts a day where the conditions are favorable.

The Cartersville Courant, in giving a sketch of "Uncle Billy Cowan," gives an incident of Indian life, which will bear reproduction. Uncle Billy was born in 1806, in Jackson county, subsequently removed to Walton where he was married, and later settled in DeKalb, where he was at one time deputy sheriff of that county, and also justice of the peace for six or seven years. While he was acting as deputy sheriff the Indians massacred the Boman family near Pine Log. An Indian was arrested and put in jail at Decatur. The sheriff, Dr. Powell, started with the murderer to Cassville, where Judge Hooper was expected to try the case. When he reached Cassville the court for some reason was postponed. On the way back, at Alitoona, the Indian escaped, and the sheriffs were out a hundred dollars for his capture the second time At that time politics run very high. The Troup and Clark—state rights and union parties—were very bitter and both had to fight for power in the county. The escape of the Indian was a pretext for a fierce attack in the next county election and Uncle Billy was beaten two votes in a large, populous county. In 1841 he moved to Cobb county and is still a resident, near Acworth. Of ten children only three survive—two in Texas, and one, Frank Cowan, is one of Cobb's most enterprising, upright and intelligent farmers.

The Rome Courier gives fuller details of the killing of Allen Pasco, mention of which has been made heretofore in the dispatches:

On the morning of the 6th of last April the storehouse of Messrs. Vincent & Cunningham, which is located about fifteen miles from town at Briceville, on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad, and near the county line of Polk, was found broken open. Upon an investigation it was found that goods to the amount of about $100 had been extracted from the store, which consisted of such articles as clothing, boots, shoes, hats, etc. This was the second time the store had been robbed and various other depredations had been committed in the neighborhood recently, and consequently the people of the vicinity were wrought up to a high pitch of excitement. It was believed that a gang of thieves infested the neighborhood, which is about to prove to be the case. Officers of the law quietly set to work to ferret out the doer of these evils and to bring that to face justice. Although they worked for some time without avail, they persevered on until suspicion pointed among others toward Joe Lampton and Allan Pasco, two negroes of desperate characters. Armed with search warrants, the officers invaded the houses of these negroes, and there found a number of articles of the stealing, as well as those stolen from other places. Lampton was immediately arrested and brought to the county jail of Floyd county, where he confessed to being an accessory to the crime, and gave the names of the entire party, five in all, three of whom are still at large. Getting an inkling to the turn affairs were taking, Pasco skipped out. Hearing that he had gone towards Dalton, Deputy Sheriff Jenkins Monday morning wrote to the officials in that neighborhood with a description, and asking them to arrest and hold him if found. Yesterday morning the sheriff of Catoosa county spotted his man in the town of Ringgold and proceeded at once to arrest him. Pasco showed fight, and in the struggle between the two men a bullet was fired from the pistol of the officer and bedded itself in the body of Pasco. He was then handcuffed and carried to jail, where his wound was attended to. We failed to learn the nature of the wound, and therefore cannot tell whether not it is serious. A dispatch was received by the sheriff here to come after Pasco, and accordingly Deputy Sheriff Jenkins will leave this morning for the scene of the late struggle.

Jackson News: Isham Kelly and his boys lived near Neborn, Newton county, near the line of Jasper. Several years ago an assassination of a respectable citizen by the name of Hardman, occurred in that vicinity. The Kelly family were considered hard cases, and had some trivial misunderstanding with Hardman, who was a near neighbor to the Kellys, previous to his murder, which occurred at night, while sitting in his door washing his feet. Of course, the assassination created intense excitement in that part of the county, and suspicion at once centered upon Isham Kelly and two sons, Charles and Edward. They were ar d, and Charles Kelly was convicted of the g of Hardman by circumstantial evidence, sentenced to the penitentiary for life. Isham was also indicted as particeps criminas, but was postponed from time to time, and he finally turned loose upon his own recognizance, and remains so to this day. Ed Kelly was released, but was afterwards convicted for g a mule in Jackson county and sentenced mber of years to the chaingang. He has served his term of confinement and comes to the a card published in the Covington Star, in he say he expects to live an honest life in and asks forgiveness of his enemies for past He says that his family has been accused offenses of which they are not guilty, and his brother Charles is serving a life-time sen in Dade coal mine for a crime of which he is nt. It was a case of circumstantial evidence d the Kellys, who had a bad reputation friends in the county, may or may not een guilty of the crime.

Gwinnett Herald tells of a lively chase of miles after a horse thief: On last Saturday Brady Stevens, who lives at J. C. Carroll's, horse and went out after supper to turn t to grase. When he got to the stable he the horse gone, and on examining around e satisfied that it was stolen. Calling up some of his neighbors he started in pursuit. He tracked the horse through Lawrenceville and towards Jefferson. After daylight came he found that he was but a short distance behind the thief, hearing of him at the houses as he passed. The thief must have known that he was being pursued as he continued to move rapidly. Eight or ten miles below town the pursuers lost their game for a while, but in an hour or two were on his trail again, and run him in near Hoschton. Here they got in sight of him and halloaed to some men cutting wheat in a field near the road to head him. When the thief saw he was almost to be cornered, he jumped from the horse and took to the woods and made his escape. Stevens got his horse and returned to Lawrenceville, and had a warrant issued for his arrest. The negro's name is Lou Dunlap, and is well known in the lower part of Gwinnett. The officers are on the lookout for him.

In Forsyth county, Rev. John Mullins, aged 73, and Mrs. Francis Evers, aged 69, satisfied that it was not well to live alone, appeared before Rev. W. G. McMichael and were made one.

Mrs. Bessie Paschal Wright, who has become the wife of Thomas Power O'Connor, an Irish member of parliament, is a niece of Mrs. J. F. Lilly, of Gainesville. She engaged in a lively tilt through the columns of THE CONSTITUTION at one time with the late Wm. Henry Sparks, whose criticisms on her grandfather were not complimentary.

Albany News: The officials of the Brunswick and Western railroad have gotten wind of the fact that a regular organization exists for the purpose of stealing goods of the various sorts shipped over the road. This band of rogues has its headquarters in Brunswick, and is made up of train hands, draymen and low grade storekeepers. Robberies have been pretty frequent recently. Last week six of the guilty parties were arrested near Brunswick, with some of the stolen goods in possession.

Athens Banner: Uncle Dick Saulter, one of the oldest stage drivers in the south, has had remarkable luck during his many years coaching over the mountains. He says he never had a runaway, a turnover or had the road agents to attack him. Uncle Dick had lines running from Athens to Clarksville and to Greenville, S. C., and as far north as Ashville, N. C, and south to Madison, Eatonton and Milledgeville. Uncle Dick has carried over his different lines the best men in Georgia. Mrs. Nash's was one of the stopping places for the stage on the road to Clarkesville. It was just fourteen miles from Athens, and it was the best way station on one of the lines. Many of the old southern Georgians remember with delight the fine farm, the beautiful flower yard and the well at the home of Mrs. Nash. The house was kept by two old ladies who flattered themselves on supplying their guests with the best the market could afford. Uncle Dick Saulter always kept fine horses and generally drove six to each coach and to see him driving headlong like life and death depended on his movement is now talked about by those living along the line. But the good old days of stage coaching are over and will never come again. Uncle Dick Saulter, like Othello, has lost his occupation, since every little town in the country that had a few dollars has got a railroad.

That nothing succeeds like success has passed into a proverb. The success of St. Jacobs Oil arises from the fact that millions of people have found it the conqueror of pain.

Central Trust Company of New York vs. the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad Company. In equity in the Circuit Court of the United States, Northern District of Georgia.

IT IS ORDERED THAT ALL DISPUTED CLAIMS, without regard to amount, against the receiver in this cause, arising out of his operation of the respondent's railroad, in the Northern district of Georgia, shall be presented to the court by intervening petitions in this cause, setting forth the facts.

Second. That the receiver, or his counsel, shall be notified of the filing of such petitions by due and legal service.

Third. That the receiver shall have twenty (20) days from and after the service of said notice within which to make defense thereto.

Fourth. That at the expiration of said twenty (20) days said petition or petitions shall be, by the clerk, referred to the special master in this cause to take proof and report to the court the same and his conclusions thereon in the premises.

Fifth. Upon the filing of such proof and report by such special master upon any intervening petition, said receiver or his counsel and the intervening petitioner shall have notice thereof and ten days from and after the service of said notice within which to file exceptions to said report.

Sixth. Upon said exceptions and report, or upon said report, if there be no exceptions, the right of the party shall be adjudged.

Seventh. In the event said receiver shall not have any funds in his hands out of which to pay the sum so adjudged, he shall report the same to the court, and also show in his said report when, in his opinion, he will be in funds out of which to pay such adjudicated claim.

Eighth. The hearing before the said master shall be in the city of Atlanta at such times as may be determined by said master under the direction of the court, of which sittings all parties in interest shall have due notice. But in all cases where the circumstances shall require, on account of the number of witnesses, or other good cause, the master shall be authorized to have hearings at such other points in said district as shall be most convenient, and conducive to the ends of justice.

Ninth. Ordered further, that Eustace W. Speer be appointed special master in this cause.

This 11th day of June, 1885, at Atlanta, Ga.
W. B. WOODS, Circuit Justice.

United States of America, Northern District of Georgia—I, R. E. WOMAN!
HER BEST FRIEND!
DR. J. BRADFIELD'S
FEMALE REGULATOR

This famous remedy most happily meets the demand of the age for woman's peculiar and multiform afflictions. It is a remedy for WOMAN ONLY and for one SPECIAL CLASS of her diseases. It is a specific for certain diseased conditions of the womb, and proposes to so control the Menstrual Functions as to regulate all the derangements and irregularities of Woman's

MONTHLY SICKNESS.

Its proprietors claim for it no other medical property; and to doubt the fact that this medicine does positively possess such controlling and regulating powers is simply to discredit the voluntary testimony of thousands of living witnesses who are to-day exulting in the restoration to sound health and happiness.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR

is strictly a vegetable compound, and is the product of medical science and practical experience directed towards the benefit of

SUFFERING WOMAN!

It is the studied prescription of a learned physician whose specialty was WOMAN, and whose fame became enviable and boundless because of his wonderful success in the treatment and cure of female complaints. The REGULATOR is the GRANDEST REMEDY known, and richly deserves its name:

WOMAN'S BEST FRIEND!

Because it controls a class of functions the various derangements of which cause more ill health than all other causes combined, and thus rescues her from a long train of afflictions which sorely embitter her life and prematurely end her existence. Oh! what a multitude of living witnesses can testify to its charming effects! Woman! take to your confidence this

PRECIOUS BOON OF HEALTH!

It will relieve you of nearly all the complaints peculiar to your sex. Rely upon it as your safeguard for health, happiness and long life.

Sold by all druggists. Send for our treatise on the Health and Happiness of Woman, mailed free, which gives all particulars

COMPTROLLER GENERAL'S OFFICE, ATLANTA, Ga., July 9th, 1883.—Dr. P. R. Holt, Eufaula, Ala., Dear Sir: I am pleased to report that I have been entirely cured of indigestion by the use of your Dyspeptic Elixir. I was induced by a friend to try it, after having tried almost every remedy known for my disease, without the slightest effect. I took only three small bottles of your medicine before I was entirely well. I suffered several years, and although it has been three years since I used your preparation, I have had no return of it. ATLANTA, JUNE 26, 1885.

INDICATIONS for South Atlantic States at 1 a. m.: Local rains; variable winds: warmer in northern portion, stationary temperature in the southern portion.

THE presence of several vessels along the coast, with yellow fever aboard, warns the country of the annual danger threatening it from trade with West Indian ports. Eternal vigilance is as necessary to good health as it is to liberty.

LORD RANDOLPH CHURCHILL has astonished the slow going Britishers by taking hold of his portfolio immediately upon being assigned to it. It has been the custom hitherto for the new men to spend a week leisurely before getting down to work.

MR. HENDRICKS was banquetted last night by the Bay State club of Boston. He made one of those ringing, characteristic speeches which so stirred up the democracy during the last campaign, and called upon the democracy to have an eye upon the next campaign, when he hoped to see Massachusetts join in the column with Indiana.

WHAT WILL THEY DO ABOUT IT?

The Ohio republicans are getting to be very sensitive in regard to the criticisms on their platform, and every republican writer in that state is busily engaged in making a defense of the bloody shirt issue. The attitude of the Ohio republicans is worth studying, as we have said heretofore, because it furnishes a key to the republican national programme. Reading the comments of the Blaine organs on the Ohio platform, one can readily perceive that it meets the views of the republican machine men and professors as the only programme that holds out the slightest hope of success.

It is true that the late President Garfield, when he was serving his last years in congress, warned his party that sectionalism was a dead issue; but it should be borne in mind that Garfield has long ceased to be a republican saint. His party has forgotten him, and his warning will have no effect on its leaders. As a matter of fact, the republicans have no other issue. They are compelled by the sheer force of circumstances to go into the next campaign as the breeders of sectional prejudice and strife.

There was no reason, however, why the Ohio republicans should handicap themselves with an issue which the people of this country have buried out of sight by electing a democratic president. In a state that is at all lively and progressive, there ought to be an abundance of lively local issues of prime importance to the people. The truth is, the Ohio republican platform is absolutely meaningless. Though the republicans were to elect a governor a hundred times over, what effect would such a result have on the alleged suppression of the colored vote in the south? There have been a good many republican governors of Ohio since the war, but, according to the testimony of the organs themselves, the bulldozing and the intimidation has been going on all the time.

But this is not all. If the negro vote is suppressed at the south, and has been suppressed ever since the democratic party became solid in the old slave states, what remedy will the republican party offer if it is again placed in control of the government? In other words, what would a republican administration do about it? Would Brother Blaine, for instance, do better than General Grant did? Or would any other republican do better than Hayes, or Garfield, or Arthur?

The truth of the matter is that when the republican party was in power, the republican papers fairly reeked with accounts of southern outrages and bulldozing. According to their own statements, the negroes had no opportunities as human beings, much less as citizens and voters. And yet, somehow or other, the great republican party offered no remedy. What do the leaders propose to do about it now? Will Halstead inform us?

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION.

The industrial schools of Boston and Philadelphia and of a few other pioneer cities will be closely watched during the coming year; for very many communities appreciate the need of a change in public education, and are very desirous of a feasible plan. The movement is gaining friends in all parts of the country. In Pennsylvania Chief McCamant of the state bureau of industrial statistics, urges a revision of the common school system, with a view to introducing industrial features. As more scholars would be benefitted by the introduction of hand training than by any other special feature, and as it would benefit them mentally while it would place them on the road to better citizenship, it is felt that the existing schools should be utilized, rather than establish special institutions. Pennsylvania promises to lead even Massachusetts in the general introduction of manual training.

The school board of the District of Columbia is also interested in establishing industrial schools. A standing committee has been appointed to consider the subject and take charge of the proposed schools. There are several industrial schools in Washington maintained by industrial subscriptions, or attached to well-known institutions; and in every case they have given great satisfaction, and have done much to create a demand for the addition of manual training to the work covered by the public schools of the district. Every member of the school board favors industrial education, and [illegible] it in the public schools [illegible] considered only a matter of time, sufficient appropriation, and competent instructors.

The last named want is apt to become pressing in a short time; for the railroad companies and the manufacturers take at high salaries most of the graduates of the technological schools, and the industrial schools will be forced to accept teachers that have not been properly instructed themselves. Even in towns as small as Pullman, in Illinois, industrial teaching has become a part of the public school instruction, and as the movement gathers length and breadth the want of qualified instructors will become painfully apparent. But in this matter as in all others the demand must wait upon the supply; and only those towns that decide at once to train the hands as well as the minds of their children, will be apt to get the kind of instructors they want. When the harvest is white the laborers will be scarce, and the lords of the harvest will have to bid high. The trouble will, however, cure itself in a few years, and when we have plenty of good teachers and plenty of public sentiment to sustain the innovation, the wonder will be that we went along so many years neglectful of our duty in furnishing instruction that pertains to and leads to the life time work of our children.

TAMMANY TO BE REFORMED.

There are hints and rumors that Tammany hall is about to drop the disagreeable—not to say disgraceful—features which have characterized its later history, and which have crippled its usefulness as a political organization. It is hinted, indeed, that when Mr. Kelly steps down and out, the system of bossism is to be discarded by the society. Register Reilly, of New York city, who has been talked of as Kelly's successor, gives it as his opinion that Tammany hall needs no "boss." He thinks that the organization should be controlled by the twenty-four district associations through their leaders—each district to send its representative, and each representative to be recognized in the body as the equal of any other district. Register Reilly says that under this plan New York city might possess a united democracy, and there would be no occasion for the rows and rumpusses that have been the chief feature of New York democracy during the past few years.

There is no doubt that Tammany needs reforming. It has been, and still is, a grand old organization, as potent for good, when properly managed, as it is potent for evil when its influences are improperly directed. The trouble with Tammany is, and has been, "boss" rule. All the strength of its powerful organization is, and has been, devoted to advancing the interests of a few individual, instead of the interests of the whole people. For its own good, as well as for the good of the democratic party, Tammany should so far reform itself as to devote its influence to the promotion of democratic harmony and democratic success. This would indeed be a most welcome reform.

THE tories propose to run the British government according to the Queensbury rules.

IN New York, the other day, a young man opened a flirtation with a girl in one of the parks. He smiled and made signals with a newspaper. Unfortunately for him he struck the wrong girl, and when he explained the matter to the court he met with no sympathy. The judge sentenced him to one year in the penitentiary. No doubt the miserable scamp now agrees with Dr. Talmage that "flirtation is damnation."

LORD WOLSELEY having trained his camel so that he can outrun the infuriated mahdi, protests against the evacuation of the Soudan.

THE recent action of the Boston authorities in arresting and fining preachers for holding religious services on the common has stirred up considerable excitement. A circular from Editor Hastings, of the Christian, says: "A city which licenses Buffalo Bill's Sunday exhibitions, and has room enough on her grounds for Sunday band concerts, candy stands, peanut venders, Punch and Judy exhibitions, etc., and which has ample verge for lawn tennis, baseball playing, military parades, Grand Army encampments, and resting places for multitudes of wayfarers who are exhausted by their journeys to Sunday liquor saloons, will be able to afford some little corner, where, without money and without price, the poor may hear the glad message which has been sent to them by Him who made heaven and earth, and who in former years was supposed to have some rights even on Boston Common." The question is an embarrassing one, but public order must be maintained, and if the Boston authorities find that religious meetings on the common lead to disorder they are right in arresting the responsible parties. But the other Sunday amusements mentioned by Editor Hastings are clearly wrong.

The goddess of liberty presented to us by the French people seems to be rather a shaky old girl. She needs bracing up. After we get her on the pedestal the trouble will begin in earnest. The arm holding the torch has no support, and if not braced with a couple of iron rods will be liable to fall at any time. Artistically the goddess is decidedly faulty. Her figure is unwieldy and bumpy. It seems to be admitted that a vast amount of money will have to be spent on the statue before it will be ready to stand alone.

A GREAT singer declares that she never tires of hearing herself sing. This feeling is also characteristic of the cat on the woodshed.

IN Georgia we have found it difficult to deal with inebriates because we had and still have no inebriate asylum. The same trouble exists in Massachusetts, but the lawmakers of that state have flanked it by authorizing the commitment of habitual drunkards to the lunatic asylum hospital. If the judge before whom the drunkard is examined is satisfied that he is of good character but is a dipsomaniac, he commits him to the lunatic hospital, where he is kept until it is considered safe for him to be discharged. The theory of this law is that inebriety is a disease. But while there is no inebriate asylum in Massachusetts, there is a penal reformatory for ordinary drunkards. Under the state law a "simple drunk," as it is called, is fined not exceeding five dollars and costs, or imprisonment in the reformatory for thirty days. For the third offense a person may be sent up for two years, subject to release on a ticket of leave, when he is thought to be reformed. If he fails to keep sober he may be returned to the reformatory. The Massachusetts experiment will be watched with interest.

THE queen of Roumania has written an opera. It seems that there is no law to meet such cases as this. An opera paralyzes even the police.

CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER, after making a careful investigation, put it down in black and white that of the criminals discharged from the Elmira, N. Y., reformatory, 80 per cent take their places in the world as self-supporting citizens and do not return. This is a good showing, and such results would make it profitable for every state in the union to maintain a reformatory institution for youthful offenders.

MRS. DUDLEY, who shot Jeremiah O'Donovan, is still languishing in jail, where she has been since February. A woman without friends has no chance to get justice in New York city.

ADMIRAL PORTER has gone off on a tour of recreation. It seems that when a man writes a ten-volume novel he needs a little rest.

THE tories will run things just as long as their Uncle Gladstone wants them to.

IN the second volume of his "History of the People of the United States," Mr. McMaster says of General Oglethorpe: "In his youth he served under Marlborough in the low countries. He was with the eccentric Peterborough in Italy. He gained under Eugene while fighting Turks in the old world, that military skill which he displayed when he came to fight the Spaniards in the new. He was the friend of Atterbury and Johnson. Whitfield and the Wesleys owed him much. Pope gave him a couplet. Walpole did him honor by calling him a bully. He is described in the letters of Hannah Moore. He is mentioned by Boswell in the greatest of all biographies and by Samuel Rogers in one of the most readable of all diaries. A polished gentleman, a brave soldier, a kind hearted and an upright man, Oglethorpe appears in our own history as the promoter of a noble charity. The plan failed. But, long before he died, etc." Now, it is not to be denied that this is readable, but does not the writer carry his devotion to short sentences too far? Macaulay showed how the dignified pages of a historical narrative could be brightened and rendered vivacious by the judicious use of short sentences, but he mingled them with long sentences. Mr. McMaster, however, proceeds on the assumption that we cannot have too much of a good thing. Of course anything is better than such long and involved sentences as Mr. Evarts occasionally coils around the body of the age, but the chopped up, jerky style of Mr. McMaster is also open to objection. Page after page of it is tedious, and perhaps it has too much flip and go in it for the proper treatment of historical subjects.

THE thieves that have been protected by Robeson and Bill Chandler are now announcing in stentorian tones that Secretary Whitney is trying to cripple American "enterprise." On this theory, penitentiaries are obstacles to American "enterprise."

C. R. HOLLAND, a prominent colored man in Arkansas, continues to vigorously advocate his scheme of colonizing the negroes in New Mexico. He claims that the people of the south "work fifteen months in the year," raising cotton to exchange for bread and meat, and then do not get half enough. He says that when the negroes leave the southern states a good class of whites will move in. Even if white immigrants failed to come, he thinks that it would be more profitable to let the country grow up in grass, so the people would raise stock and fertilize and reclaim their worn out lands. It will be seen that the esteemed colored brother is a little wild.

SLUGGER SULLIVAN changes from one drunk to another with lightning like rapidity. He now claims to be from the prohibition state of Maine.

AT the meeting of the New England Baptist missionary convention the Rev. H. N. Jeter advanced the idea that ice cream is "a demoralizing substance." As at this season of the year we literally have ice cream "in our midst," as it were, the views of Mr. Jeter deserve consideration. Sometimes when a crowd of Sunday-school excursionists get hold of a quantity of ice cream that has been allowed to stand in old copper freezers they suddenly jump to the conclusion that the devil has got them in a pretty tight grip, but they generally get over it. Other phases of demoralization resulting from this alluring summer luxury are well known. Strictly moral young men who encounter their young lady friends in the vicinity of an ice-cream saloon have been known after the trouble was over to indulge in profanity of the most reckless description. In Boston it is claimed that during the ice cream season the sexes drift apart. It is gratifying to know that the demoralizing aspect of this seductive and deceptive hot weather product has been the subject of discussion in a serious body like the New England Baptist missionary convention. The young men of the country are vitally interested in the matter, and if any pointers are thrown out they will be quick to catch on.

AN organ has an article on "the use of cornets." Cornets, however, will be of very little use to the republican party during the next twenty-five years.

THE pointed and pithy sermons of the Rev. Sam Jones are not protected by any copyright and consequently may be used by any one who chooses to gather them from the newspapers in which they appeared. In Chattanooga a short time ago an edition of Mr. Jones's sermons appeared and met with a large sale. Later another edition was published in Richmond, and now one is announced in Nashville. If some enterprising person would now collect Mr. Jones's temperance addresses and publish them in a neat pamphlet he would find no difficulty in selling it in all the states where the temperance question is agitated.

WE trust that none of the esteemed Blaine organs have forgotten that the Hon. Eugene Higgins is still holding the fort.

PHILADELPHIA has given notice that it will no longer put up with the drunken hilarities of the Boston slugger, and the police have been given strict orders to catch him as catch can, and hit him in the eye ball, bim!

PERSONS AND THINGS.

THE Illinois legislature is the only one in session.

A SON has been born to Lieutenant Greely and wife.

HARPER BROTHERS pay Mr. James R. Osgood a salary of $10,000 a year.

LORD RANDOLPH CHURCHILL has the luck to be disliked by the queen almost as much as Mr. Gladstone.

THE editor of the New York Journal of Commerce says he hasn't had a vacation for over forty years.

MRS. LANGTRY is busily studying the Yorkshire dialect, in preparation for her part in her new play, The Young Tramp.

QUEEN VICTORIA has just lost her favorite dog, Noble, that had been her constant companion in her walks for more than twelve years.

ABOUT 3,500 saloon-keepers in Chicago pay a license fee of $500 each, producing the enormous revenue of $1,750,000. This ought to go a long way toward supporting the municipal government.

THE ushers who acted at a wedding held in Baltimore two years ago were the pall bearers at the funeral of the bride last week, and invitations to attend the funeral were sent out to all who had been invited to the wedding.

THE railroad system of Japan has attained a length of 225 miles, and is increasing steadily. It has been mainly built by the Japanese government with native capital. The business results up to the present time have given no cause for dissatisfaction.

"AH, William," said an old lawyer to Mr. W. W. Story, the sculptor, "to think that you might have followed in your father's footsteps! You might have been a great lawyer—you had it in you—and you chose to stay on here in Rome and pinch mud!"

AFTER sputtering against the Broadway horse railroad for years, New Yorkers now admit that it is a great improvement on the clumsy, lumbering stage system. The horse car is not ornamental, but it is irresistibly useful, and hence has fairly conquered the world, from China to Peru.

MRS. W. H. VANDERBILT makes excellent cake, and is especially successful with a certain kind of sponge cake of her own invention; Mrs. Cyrus W. Field, more practical, is noted among her acquaintances for her fine bread, and young Mrs. Astor and Jennie June Croly are adepts in preparing dainty sandwiches.

A BOSTON statistician says that $1 will buy as much of the necessaries of life to-day, as $1.50 in 1875, $1.32 in 1855, 91 cents in 1845, and $1.19 in 1825. In other words, the purchasing power of $1 is nineteen per cent greater than it was in 1855. A dollar will buy more to-day than in most previous periods in the history of the nation.

ACQUAINTANCES of Pete B. Sweeney say that he has lost his share in the old ring stealings by speculations abroad. He wanders around Paris a moody, discontented man, avoided by his old acquaintances who fawned on him in the days of his prosperity and passed by contemptuously by others. His wife has for the last three years been a resident of New York.

IN the ninety days since Commissioner Miller took charge of the internal revenue bureau, out of the eighty-four internal revenue collectors in the country, he has appointed sixty new ones. The remaining officers to be changed are one each in Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Indiana, Maryland, Missouri, Montana, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Ohio and Wisconsin; five each in Illinois and New York, and three in Pennsylvania.

THE throne of the empress of Russia is completely covered with plates of gold, and contains 1,500 rubies and 8,000 turquoises, besides many other rare and costly gems. The throne of the czar, known as the diamond throne, is truly a marvel. It is generally conceded that Russia possesses more precious stones than any other nation, a majority of which were procured at the expense of blood. The jewels in the cathedral at Moscow are valued at $12,000,000.

RICHARD HENRY HORMAN, who failed in Chicago in 1874, is a man of whom the modern Diogenes would do well to make a note. He paid 50 cents on $1 of his $75,000 debts at the time of the catastrophe, but less than a week ago settled the whole matter cent for cent, according to his promise 11 years ago. One creditor had died and left a widow and family in a rather destitute condition, and the unexpected check seemed to them as a heaven-sent legacy.

IT was M. Thiers, the Parisian flower-sellers quaintly say, who at his funeral first brought floral crowns into fashion. He put over $15,000 into their pockets on that occasion. The floral display at Gambetta's obsequies was far more lavish. Something like $50,000 was spent in strewing the path of his glory with flowers to the grave. The trade estimate of the cost of this feature of the Hugo ceremonial brings it up to the astonishing figure of $200,000. Mme. Brisson paid $200 for the wreath which she sent.

THE Hon. Roscoe Conkling on the evening before his departure for Europe said to a friend in New York, who has just arrived in this city—"I was not at any time or in any way invited to take part in the last campaign for the republican party in this state or out of it, and you know a man can't very conscientiously dine with friends until he has first received an invitation. I see also that I am credited with having an acquaintance with President Cleveland and influence with his administration. You can say for me that this is wholly untrue. I never saw Mr. Cleveland in my life."

ECHOES FROM THE PEOPLE

Settled Long Ago.

Reader, Atlanta, Ga: In speaking of an alley four feet wide, which is correct, "a four foot alley," or "a four feet alley?"

"A four foot alley." This is just as correct as it is to say "a five dollar bill."

Rev. Mr. Jardine.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: The heading in your paper of this date and also of other days during last week, in the "Jardine case," is misleading. He is not a Catholic priest, and according to Canon Laid could never have been ordained, having once committed a felony. State what is his religion?

Rev. Mr. Jardine is a high church Protestant Episcopal preacher. His designation of himself as a "Catholic," in his statement to the vestry, was the cause of the error in THE CONSTITUTION'S headlines.

An Old Soldier's Appeal.

SUMMER SIDE, SPALDING CO., GA.—Editors Constitution: I see among the anticipated bills that will likely come up at the next meeting of the legislature will be one to allow maimed soldiers $50 per annum instead of the various amounts now allowed every three years. Such an act would be highly appreciated by us who have been unfortunate, and we think one that the good people of the state could heartily indorse. We hope, as you have ever been the soldier's friend, you will do us the kindness to call the attention of the legislators of the various counties to the same through your columns. We, as a class, have seldom, if ever, asked for any favors, and we hope the bill will meet with a hearty approval. We are satisfied that many of us generally need such assistance. Respectfully, A ONE ARMED SOLDIER.

"HOW'S THINGS?"

A Careless Question Provokes a Citizen's Wrath in a Barber Shop.

From the St. Louis Republican.

"You vos never shaved in de old country?" said the barber, as he lathered away at a customer's chin. "No? Vell dey hev a vey a shaving dere dot few in dis country know enything about. They have a paste which is spread over de face. It rest dere ten minutes, and then a wooden spoon vill tek off de peard."

There were some in the shop who remembered this process, which, though it sounds like a yarn, is a fact. The paste if left too long on the face will blister it, but if scraped off at the expiration of ten or twelve minutes, the hair comes with it. At this stage of the scientific discussion on beards and pastes, Citizen Bob Tiffany entered. Something had occurred to ruffle the usual equanimity of Citizen Tiffany's disposition, and he plumped into a chair with an ominous and truculent thud.

"Hello, Mr. Tiffany," said a pert young dude who was getting his hair clipped; "how's things?" Citizen Tiffany glared at the too fresh interlocutor.

"How's what?" he growled.

"How's things?" chirped the youth blithely. You know what I mean; how are you? how's things?"

"Oh mighty, yet forbearing Heavens; hearken unto this idiot!" cried Mr. Tiffany dramatically. "How's things?" What things? Things! A gentleman cannot walk into a barber shop, and sit quietly down to wait for a shave without being asked by some Christ forsaken lunatic, 'how's things?' "What do you mean by this, anyhow?" and Citizen Tiffany marched threateningly on the horror-stricken, and now thoroughly alarmed dude.

"Why I only—you know," stammered the quivering victim of the citizen's wrath. "I only—well I—how's things?"

"Now, by the ghost of him whose revered name I bear," declaimed Mr. Tiffany, "I'll make a haggis of you! Yet, hold! How's things? It's too late, too late," and holding his cain before him, rapier fashion Mr. Tiffany made an exit which Lawrence Barrett in his best days might have equalled, but never excelled.

Clara Belle's Idea of Entertainment in a Manufacturing City.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Newarker's social position is not only determined by the kind of goods he manufactures, but the trial of his "shop" is over his whole family. There is one exclusive and intellectual circle made up wholly of leather and steam engine people, and another of almost equal refinement, composed of sheet iron, harness and earthenware families. A degree below these is the malleable-casting, horse collar and window-shade set, which rank much higher than the circle in which the harness-buckles, coffin-trimming and overshoe people predominated.

One of the most brilliant events of the social season in Newark is the annual ball of the Patent Leather dancing class, and great was the scandal caused this year by the appearance of two tooth-brush girls, escorted by worthy young men of peppermint extraction, and matronized by a celluloid chaperon.

Calico hops are popular, and so are copperwire hops, carpet dances and whisp-broom surprise parties. Some ladies boast of entertaining a great deal of "carriage company," while others are content to receive wagon, sleigh, or even horse-collar company.

"Come early on Tuesday evening," writes a Newark hostess, "I want you to meet the Misses Smythe, two lovely vegetable ivory girls, and Mrs. Squair, the compressed hay widow, who plays so divinely. I would be happy, also, to have you bring that agreeable young clothes-wringer friend of yours with you."

Newark has not only an aristocracy, but a desiccated codfish aristocracy, which is the subject of general ridicule. It is also worthy of note that it is difficult for even lightning-rod and weather-cock families to get into the highest society.

Seeking a Fortune in the West.

From the Chicago Herald.

"My dear," said a father to his daughter, "how long ago was it that George Jackson went west to seek his fortune?"

"Just a year," replied the girl with a blush.

"Was there anything between you and George? I sometimes thought he was fond of you."

"He was, papa," and the girl hid her face on the old man's shoulder. "I promised George when he went away that I would wait for him for years if necessary."

"I have a letter from him."

"Oh, papa!" she exclaimed. "Does he—er—has he—oh, tell me, what does he say?"

"He wants $20 to get home with."—Exchange.

IT MAKES A MAN GASP TO LOOK.

The Waves of Tipsy Men and Shoals of Pretty Women on Broadway.

"Drunkards and pretty women," said a stalwart Broadway policeman yesterday "run in shoals. A period of drunkenness has settled on this town which people must be aware of if they have had their eyes open during the last two weeks. I have been observing New Yorkers for a good many years now from my post right on this corner. All New York passes here at some time or other, and I have got so that I know the faces of half the business men in town. About ten days ago what you might call a rage for liquor fell on the boys. Every other man who walked up and down passed my corner with his head in the air, swinging his arms and whistling, singing, or talking at the highest rate. From that time to this it has been on the increase. I never saw so many young men under the influence of liquor in my life as during this particular time. One of the waiters in the saloon three doors above here tells me that that business has never been so brisk as during this time, and the only reason that the true state of things has not come up in the police courts is because the drinkers are nearly all gentlemanly appearing fellows, who are not fractious or ugly; at least, few of them are. There are, of course, some who are ugly, and if you should go around to the bouncers of the different hotels, particularly of the Hoffman house, and ask them about some of the midnight scenes during the past two weeks, they might give you a heap of information about pretty well known men. It is hard to account for it, except on the ground that the sudden rush of hot weather makes men feel stale and uncomfortable, and they take a drink to straighten up. You never feel like eating in hot weather, and so if you drink much, it is apt to be on an empty stomach. It is too hot to go home early, and, as you don't feel like eating, you naturally keep on drinking. The first thing you know you are three sheets in the wind. It is very different in the winter, when men go home as soon as business is over, eat their dinners, because the brisk air gives them an appetite, and stay in their houses to keep warm."

"But the shoals of pretty women?"

"That beats me. Every policeman on Broadway will tell you that there are times when pretty women run so thick that it makes a man gasp to cast his eye along a block, and there are other times when the faces, collectively and singly, are enough to stop the watches of every policeman on the street. I don't believe the weather has anything whatever to do with it, for I have known beautiful days to bring out crowds of ugly women, while on other days that are not half so pleasant the streets have been alive with pretty faces. There seem to be no particular day of the week, either, on which pretty women come out in numbers. I used to think that Friday was the best day for handsome women. That was a sort of tradition. But it is a mystery. They simply turn out or they don't, as the fancy strikes them, and the fancy seems to govern pretty women at one time and plain ones at another."

General Grant's Last Story.

From the Boston Herald.

Grant has, possibly, uttered his last loud words, for his loss of voice is regarded as final. They were the relation of an anecdote which is not in the published excerpts of his history. A friend called on him in the evening previous to his speechlessness, and immediately after his departure the patient fell asleep, to awaken unable to speak, except to give a brief order to his nurse. He said that, when the famous peace commission called on him and President Lincoln in Virginia, he saw Alexander H. Stephens for the first time. He had heard much of the southern statesman, and had supposed him to be a very little man, but, on seeing him in company with the other commissioners, he thought him astonishingly big. Stephens wore a huge overcoat, made of some rude material—coarser, the general said, than any Canadian cloth he had ever seen. The collar was more comprehensive than any he had come across, the tails touched the ground, and the circumference was in keeping with the rest of the ample proportions. In Grant's headquarters Stephens took off the coat, and revealed himself the slender and in every way diminutive man he had been represented to be. It was the garment that had afforded bulk. The peace commission went up on the York river to see Lincoln, and a few days after the president came down to meet Grant.

"Did you see Stephens?" Lincoln asked.

"Yes, sir," replied Grant.

"See him in his overcoat?"

"Yes, sir."

"See him take it off?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well," and Lincoln roared with laughter, "ain't that the littlest ear out of the biggest shuck you ever saw in your life?"

Grant told the story with gusto, and seemed to especially recall Lincoln's quick sense of the ludicrous.

The Foreign Budget.

The people of England are expected to take the coming ministry cum grawno Sawlisbury. The motto of the administration will be: "Salisbury populi suprema est lexicon Latin."

Worked the Wrong Racket.

From the Alta California.

"Ma and I," she said shyly, are more like sisters than mother and daughter."

"Yes," he said, with a lingering inflection on the afterguard of his "yes," which rose clean to the ceiling.

"Yes, indeed," said the girl, with a rosy flush on her cheeds, making her infinitely more beautiful than ever. "Ma and I are inseparable. We have never been separated a single day since I was a little baby."

"No-o?" he said, this with an inflection on the second section of "no" that went only halfway to the ceiling and back again.

"Oh, dear, no," the girl went on in her artless way, "and ma always said that when I was married she was going to love my husband like her own son, and come and keep house for us."

"Oh-h!" said William, with a circumflex. Then he rose up slowly and firmly, and said that he had a note in bank to take up at 3 o'clock; as it was now 9:30 he would go. And he did go. And he didn't come back again. Not never. And ma said to the girl:

"That's where you missed it in not trusting to your mother. Why didn't you tell me that man had been married before? Had I known that he was a widower I would have played the 'home-for-old-women' racket on him."

Red Lead in Pepper.

From the Chicago Herald.

"I dislike to see you eat cayenne pepper," said a wholesale grocer to a friend who was putting the stuff on some raw oysters.

"Why?" asked the friend.

The grocer dusted a little of the pepper on the open page of his notebook and drew his finger over it. A number of small red lines showed where grains of pepper had been drawn over the paper.

"Because half of this stuff is not pepper. The real article, pure and strong, comes from the West Indies. It is regularly adulterated for restaurant use by mixing it with rice flour and ground mustard husks which have been colored red with red lead. Those red lines on the paper are pure paint."

A Tennessee Row.

CLEVELAND, Tenn., June 25.—[Special.]—This city was all agog with excitement today over the sensational trial of C. L. Hardwick, the leading capitalist of this place, charged with assault on James Patrick, one of his tenants. There were several rows at the trial, and it seemed as if the whole town would divide on the question. Hardwick was bound over.

Fires in Chattanooga.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 25.—[Special.]—The residence of Richard Howard, near the city limits, was burned by incendiaries this morning. The loss exceeds $3,000; $1,400 insurance. It was the work of incendiaries, and is the third deliberate attempt that has been made to burn the house. Gaston's drug store was also damaged about $500 by a fire shortly after midnight this morning. Spontaneous combustion.

A FOUL TIP.

A Peeler Named Reeves Makes a Foul Fly to Printer Baseballists.

Patrolman Reeves yesterday made a reputation as a catcher.

Yesterday afternoon about eighteen printers went to Mr. Schmidt, of the Central railroad, obtained permission to play ball on the vacant [lot] near the Central depot.

The printers separated into two sides, laid aside the stick and rule, and picking up the bat and ball prepared for a "take" of double-leaded baseball.

The boys had seen many games played, but had never taken a hand in one. They enjoyed the fun and slugged the ball without any soldiering for five innings. They made some fine catches, and showed a talent for base-running. But just as the fifth inning was being closed Patrolman Reeves appeared upon the diamond and began kicking. He kicked loud and long, and before finishing shut both sides out.

When the peeler first appeared the players did not know that he came as an umpire, but when they did tumble to his racket they struck out in one, two, three order—for home. In fact fifteen of the eighteen players went out in quick style. Only three were able to catch on to the peeler's curves, and these three will face Recorder Anderson this morning. Had Patrolman Reeves been properly supported the two nines would have earned the stationhouse.

The players were:

First nine—Woodside, p; Hardin, c; Perry, l. f.; Durant, H. R., 1 b.; Rice, 2 b.; Spencer, 3 b.; Ball, r. f.; Lovinggood, s. s.; Durant, H. M., c. f.

Second nine—Whitaker, p.; Peers, c.; Fleish, l. f.; Fletcher, 1 b.; Cole, 2 b.; Duncan, 3 b.; Harper, r. f.; Gorman, s. s.; Smith, c. f.

Scorer, Saloshin.

Recorder Anderson will umpire the game this morning at recorder's court.

Summary—Earned runs 15. Home runs 15. Struck out by Reeves 3. Struck out for themselves 15. Errors—Patrolman Reeves 15; Printers 3.

Game called on fifth inning for a rest.

The patrolman made the arrest because he claims that the parties were disorderly in playing on the grounds in the city.

A Great Success.

The Railroad Y. M. C. A. reception last night was one of the most enjoyable yet given by the railroad department of the Young Men's Christian association. By 8 o'clock the rooms were filled with railroad men and ladies. A great part of the evening was spent in acquaintance-making among the numerous persons representing the different roads centering at Atlanta.

Mr. F. Des. Helmer, the general secretary of the city association, was called upon for a song and responded with a beautiful rendering of the song entitled "Tell it Again," founded upon the death of a Gypsy child.

Messrs. W. C. Wall and W. R. Bosard sung a duett entitled, "Let Him In." Mr. Wall has a magnificent tenor voice of great power and expression. He sustained the notes of the upper register in a manner that very much pleased the company.

Mrs. M. K. McWhorter sung a gospel hymn in a very superior manner. Her voice shows great cultivation, with rare, natural, musical gifts. She was highly appreciated.

A railroad trio, composed of H. G. Bradley, conductor Western and Atlantic, J. C. Courtney, chief accountant Western and Atlantic, and W. R. Bosard, railroad secretary, sang a piece in a pleasing manner.

Earnest talks were made by J. C. Courtney, G. C. Jenner, general agent Georgia Pacific railway, and Mr J. L. Thrower upon our work. Mr. J. M. Davis, chief clerk Richmond and Danville freight office, and chairman of the devotional committee, made an earnest appeal for workers in the religious work of the association.

Mrs. Helen Coleman, upon request of Captain D. T. Wyly and others, performed a few tests of her wonderful powers. Upon the mere touch of her hands she would move a chair in spite of the combined strength of three or four men.

Fourteen applications for membership were presented by Mr. J. A. Gramling. Refreshments were served by the ladies. Singing from the "Songs of Free Grace" was engaged in by all.

The R. R. department of the association is doing its work quietly and well. The public should drop into their rooms often and see how the railroad boys do for themselves.

A Marriage Last Night.

Last night Mr. Charles Wurm, the distinguished young cornetist, was married at the Second Baptist church to Miss Teddie Richards, daughter of Mr. W. G. Richards. The ceremony was performed by Dr. McDonald and Dr. Strickler. The Governor's Horse guard acted as attendants. The church was filled with the friends of the young people. After the ceremony, a splendid reception was held at the residence of the bride's father. The groom is one of the best and most popular young men of Atlanta, while his bride is a most lovely lady. A more extended notice of this interesting social event will appear in the usual society column Sunday.

Miss Kate Alexander Seriously Ill.

We regret exceedingly to learn of the very serious illness of Miss Kate Alexander, of this city, and no doubt by the time this is read by her numerous friends, her soul will have been received by its Maker. She has reached a ripe old age, and during her long and useful life has done many deeds of kindness, and always in that quiet, modest way which makes a good deed the more appreciated. Miss Alexander was born in Charleston, S. C., and is a sister of Mrs. R. A. Magnus, of this city, besides having a number of other relatives here.

Social Singing

There will be a social singing at the Young Men's Christian association this evening, at eight o'clock, at which time a male chorus will be organized. Any young man will be welcome. Bring songs of free grace.

GEORGETOWN COLLEGE.

The Sixty-Eight Annual Commencement Celebrated.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The sixty-eighth annual commencement of Georgetown university, classical department, took place to-day at the college. The degree of L. L. D. was conferred upon Hon. Charles Denby, recently appointed minister to China, and on several others. Among those upon whom the degree of master of arts was conferred was Charles O'B. Cowarden, of the Richmond Dispatch. There was, as usual, a very large attendance in the college hall. Among many distinguished people present were the members of the Chinese legation, who were present to witness the making of a doctor of the laws of Colonel Denby. There were several young men from the southern states in the graduating class. A son of Senator Ransom, of North Carolina, delivered an addess on "The South." The validictory was pronounced by Walter N. Kernan, son of ex-Senator Kernan, of New York.

A Negro Swichman Killed.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 25.—[Special.]—Joseph Stewart, a negro switchman in the Alice furnance yard, was instantly killed this evening. The locomotive had a train of ten cars of iron ore pulling up the incline to the furnace, and Stewart was ordered to cut loose four cars, so that the load would not be so heavy. When the engine returned for the four cars, Stewart was found on the track with the head and both legs severed from the body. It is not known how the accident occurred.

His Heart Cut in Two.

TALLADEGA, Ala., June 25.—[Special.]—About 2 o'clock this afternoon two negroes employed at D. W. Rogers & Co.'s steam sawmill, engaged in a friendly wrestle, and one, in falling, fell immediately across what is known as the slab saw, cutting his heart in two instantly. The names of the parties are unknown.

Failure of an Alleged Millionaire.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 25.—[Special.]—J. W. Brown, who moved from Erie, Pennsylvania, to this city last fall and was reputed to be worth half a million, failed to day owing $3,300 with about $2,000 assets. All his liabilities are due here. The failure was entirely unexpected.

Song.

Linger, my Lady! Lady lily fair,
Stay yet thy step upon the casement stair—
Poised be thy slipper tip as is the tine
Of some still star. Ah, Lady!—lady mine,
Yet linger—linger there!

Thy face, O Lady, lily-pure and fair,
Gleams i' the dusk as in thy dusky hair
The snowy blossom glimmers, or the shine
Of thy swift smile. Ah, lady!—lady mine,
Yet linger—linger there!

With lifted wrist, where round the laughing a[ir]
Hath blown a mist of lawn and claspt it there,
Wait finger tipt adieus that spray the wine
Of thy waste kisses tow'rd me, lady mine—
Yet linger—linger there!

What unloosed splendor is there may compar[e]
With thy hands unfurled glory anywhere?
What glint of sun, or dew, or jewel fine
May mate thine eyes? Ah, Lady—lady mine
Yet linger—linger there!

My soul confronts thee; on thy brow and h[air]
It lays its gentleness like palms of prayer;
It touches sacredly those lips of thine
And swoons across thy spirit, lady mine,
The while thou lingerest there.

A FOUL TIP.

A Peeler Named Reeves Makes a Foul Fly to Printer Baseballists.

Patrolman Reeves yesterday made a reputation as a catcher.

Yesterday afternoon about eighteen printers went to Mr. Schmidt, of the Central railroad obtained permission to play ball on the vacant near the Central depot.

The printers separated into two sides, laid aside the stick and rule, and picking up the bat and ball prepared for a "take" of double leaded baseball.

The boys had seen many games played, but had never taken a hand in one. They enjoyed the fun and slugged the ball without any soldiering for five innings. They made some fine catches, and showed a talent for base-running. But just as the fifth inning was being closed Patrolman Reeves appeared upon the diamond and began kicking. He kicked loud and long, and before finishing shut both sides out.

When the peeler first appeared the players did not know that he came as an umpire, but when they did tumble to his racket they struck out in one, two, three order—for home. In fact fifteen of the eighteen players went out in quick style. Only three were able to catch on to the peeler's curves, and these three will face Recorder Anderson this morning. Had Patrolman Reeves been properly supported the two nines would have earned the stationhouse.

The players were:

First nine—Woodside, p; Hardin, c; Perry, l. f.; Durant, H. R., 1 b.; Rice, 2 b.; Spencer, 3 b.; Ball, r. f.; Lovinggood, s. s.; Durant, H. M., c. f.

Second nine—Whitaker, p.; Peers, c.; Fleish, l. f.; Fletcher, 1 b.; Cole, 2 b.; Duncan, 3 b.; Harper, r. f.; Gorman, s. s.; Smith, c. f.

Scorer, Saloshin.

Recorder Anderson will umpire the game this morning at recorder's court.

Summary—Earned runs 15. Home runs 15. Struck out by Reeves 3. Struck out for themselve 15. Errors—Patrolman Reeves 15; Printers 3.

Game called on fifth inning for a rest.

The patrolman made the arrest because he claims that the parties were disorderly in playing on the grounds in the city.

A Great Success.

The Railroad Y. M. C. A. reception last night was one of the most enjoyable yet given by the railroad department of the Young Men's Christian association. By 8 o'clock the rooms were filled with railroad men and ladies. A great part of the evening was spent in acquaintance-making among the numerous persons representing the different roads centering at Atlanta.

Mr. F. Des. Helmer, the general secretary of the city association, was called upon for a song and responded with a beautiful rendering of the song entitled "Tell it Again," founded upon the death of a Gypsy child.

Messrs. W. C. Wall and W. R. Bosard sung a duett entitled, "Let Him In." Mr. Wall has a magnificent tenor voice of great power and expression. He sustained the notes of the upper register in a manner that very much pleased the company.

Mrs. M. K. McWhorter sung a gospel hymn in a very superior manner. Her voice shows great culti ation, with rare, natural, musical gifts. She was highly appreciated.

A railroad trio, composed of H. G Bradley, conductor Western and Atlantic, J. C. Courtney, chief accountant Western and Atlantic, and W. R. Bosard, railroad secretary, sang a piece in a pleasing manner.

Earnest talks were made by J. C. Courtney, G. Jenner, general agent Georgia Pacific railway, and Mr J. L. Thrower upon our work. Mr. J. BASEBALL YESTERDAY.

A GREAT GAME BETWEEN BIRMINGHAM AND NASHVILLE.

The Atlantas Win Two out of Three from Macon—Memphis Signs a New Club—Two Games Played Yesterday Between Memphis and Columbus—The Details—Etc.

The baseball record of this week shows a marked improvement in the playing of what are considered the weaker clubs of the league. Chattanooga, strengthened by a new pitcher, has beat Augusta 2 out of 3 games. Birmingham played neck and neck with Nashville, and Memphis held her own with Columbus, besides beating an exhibition game.

Notwithstanding Atlanta's recent bad luck, she still leads the 2d club 7 games in the race for the pennant, which puts Atlanta further in the lead in the Southern league than St. Louis is the American association or the Chicagos in the National league.

The Kansas City club, which was one of the strongest in the Western league, has been engaged by Memphis. Ted Sullivan, of Kansas City, will manage the team. He brings all of the Kansas Citys except Veach and Seery. Most of old team will be released as soon as Sullivan and the new men arrive. You may now look out for Memphis among the leaders in the race for the pennant.

Al Jennings is now umpiring for the American association in Cincinnati.

Atlanta Wins in Macon.

MACON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—The crowd that went to the baseball grounds this afternoon is estimated at two thousand. The game was a fine one, both nines playing their best. After the first inning Atlanta took the lead and held it. The umpire gave satisfaction, and the spectators were in a good humor. Atlanta as well as Macon was frequently applauded. The official score:

Chattanooga Beats Augusta.

AUGUSTA, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—The Augustas met an unexpected Waterloo to-day, and were defeated by Chattanooga by 5 to 1. The game was lost 2 to 1 about the fifth inning, when heavy clouds and winds come up, threatening to stop the game, but the umpire held the boys to work, and played through the seventh inning, in which Chattanooga hit Murphy for safe ones, and increased the score by 3 runs. A very heavy rain followed, and the umpire, Cartwright, then called the game. The score is as follows:

Two Games in Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—Columbus people enjoyed two games of baseball this afternoon. Manager Smith, of the Memphis, agreed to play off the deferred game of yesterday, rather than contend for it on a technicality, and it was called at 2:30 It was also agreed not to play but seven innings in each game. Clark and Strauss were the battery for Columbus in the first game and Donnelly and Graves in the second. Masran pitched both games for Memphis. Swartz caught him in the first and part of the second, and was relieved by Sullivan. Not a run was scored in the first until the sixth inning, when, after two men were out, Clark pitched Sullivan a slow ball, and he sent it out for a home run, winning the game one to nothing, as Columbus failed to score in the seventh. Baseball in Carrolton.

CARROLTON, Ga., June 2...—[Special.]—The Atlantic baseball club of Griffin, came over Tuesday afternoon to play the Carrollton club a match game of ball Wednesday. Owing to the fact that one of their club was called home on a telegram, the entire club returned to Griffin Wednesday morning without playing the game. We had a game of ball, however, all the same, between our own clubs, the "Carrollton nine" playing the "Carrollton amateurs," the score standing at the end of the 10th inning 11 runs for the Carrollton nine and 10 for the amateurs. The most distinctive feature of the game was the superb pitching of Sterling of the amateurs.

THE HARVARD RACE.

Harvard Wins Her Eleventh Victory on Water.

NEW LONDON, Conn , June 25.—The time for the Harvard-Columbia freshman race was set for 10:30 o'clock this morning. At that hour the boats were at the starting point, which was the two mile flag off the naval station. For some reason now not known the crews were kept there fully an hour before the race was ordered. Jay Gould's steam yacht Atalanta and the United States revenue cutter Grant anchored near the finish. They were gaily bedecked with bunting. Jay Gould's launch, with Mr. Gould on board, steamed up and down the course. After a tedious wait, the boats got into line, and the word "go" was given at 11:15. Both crews took water simultaneously with little or no splashing, Harvard rowing forty strokes to Columbia thirty-nine. Both crews kept side by side for the first hundred yards, and then Harvard drew slowly ahead, and continued to increase her lead to the finish. After rowing a quarter of a mile clear water could be seen between the boats. The Harvard freshmen then, in the parlance of the university, walked away from the Columbia. Harvard made the first mile in two minutes fifty-four seconds, and were rowing a thirty-four stroke. Columbia made that distance in three minutes nine seconds, with a thirty-eight stroke. The Columbia held Harvard for a short distance, but could not gain an inch on the crimson crew. The race was virtually at an end, yet both crews continued to row in excellent form. Each team struck a 40 stroke, and Harvard rowed a mile in 5:55 and Columbia in 6:22½. Both crews made a strong stroke. At the mile and a half, Columbia run her stroke up to 44, while Harvard held up to 40. Harvard reachad one and one half mile in 8:57½, and Columbia in 9:37. Harvard pulled away for the finish in excellent shape, rowing 42 strokes on a spurt, and crossed the line an easy winner by ten lengths. The time was, Harvard, 12 m. 22 sec., Columbia, 13 m. 12 sec. Columbia rowed well, but were no match for the Harvards.

The Sheepshead Bay Races.

SHEEPSHEAD BAY, June 25.—The attendance at the Sheepshead bay races to-day was the smallest of the season, the uncertainty of the weather no doubt keeping many at home. The great feature of the day was the emporium sweepstakes, in which the California horse, Hidalgo, the stable companion of Tyrant, was intered against a fine field, including Katrine, of the Rancocas stables. The race was a splendid victory for the visitor, and stamps him as a goer of no mean order. The excitement was intense, and at the finish the crowd roared and cheered itself hoarse.

First race, handicap sweepstakes, $25 each with $600 added, divided, one mile and eighth; Burch won, Jack of Hearts second, Wallflower third; time 1:58.

Second race, two year olds, sweepstakes, $25 each with $750 added, divided, three-quarters of a mile; Electric won, Mink second, Longstop third; time 1:17¼.

Third race, handicap sweepstakes, $30 each with $750 added, divided, one mile and three eighths; Surco won, Clonmel second, Lida Stanhope third; time 2:25¾.

Fourth race, emporium sweepstakes for three year-olds, foals of 1882, of $150 each, $75 forfeit and only $25 forfeit if struck out by April 15, $5,000 to be added by the association, second to receive $1,000 of added money and 20 per cent of the stakes, and the third $500 of the added money and 10 per cent of the stakes, weight allowances, one mile and a half, twelve starters. St. Augustine led, followed closely by Tecumseh and Longview with Hidalgo and Katrine in the last row, until the mile had been gone, at a clipping pace. Then Hidalgo came out of the rack and rushing to the front on the home stretch, won easily by three lengths; St. Augustine second; Longview third; Tecumseh fifth; Katrine eleventh; Speculator last. Time 2:39¾.

Fifth race, purse $500, selling race, seven furlongs, Disturbance won, Black Jack second, Rico third. Time 1:30.

Sixth race, welter handicap sweepstakes of $15 each, with $500 added, divided, one mile and three-sixteenths. The two starters raced neck and neck till they entered the home stretch, when Trafalger was called on by Blaylock, and under the whip and spur went under the wire two lengths ahead of John Y., amid the wildest excitement and cheering. Time 2:10.

AMONG THE OARSMEN.

A Reception and Banquet to Hanlan in Toronto.

TORONTO, Ont., June 25.—A reception and banquet was tendered to Edward Hanlan, ex-champion oarsman of the world, at the Hotel Hanlan, last night. About one hundred citizens were present, among whom were Lieutenant-Governor Robinson, Mayor Manning, and other prominent persons. In replying to the toast of the evening, Hanlan said he had always rowed honest races, and had accepted his defeat by Beach as a true Canadian sportsman. He intended to again visit New South Wales, where he was always royally treated, and although he knew that Beach was probably the finest speciman of oarsmen he had ever seen, he also knew that his Australian friends would back him again to row Beach for any amount of money. Referring to Courtney, he stated that when in the United States last week, he had replied to the question as to whether he would row Courtney again, that "if Courtney would put $2,000 in some national bank, lock the door and build a fence around the building, he would row him, but not otherwise. In speaking of the coming race with Teemer, he said he would row to win. Teemer was a great oarsman, greater probably than some of them thought, and he would have to row a good race to beat him.

The Great Success of Sam Jones.

WACO, Tex., June 25.—[Special.]—The great religious revival now being conducted here by the Rev. Sam Jones, the Georgia evangelist, produces a moral revolution in our midst. Over two hundred conversions since last night. He holds four services daily and five thousand people crowd the tabernacle each time. There never was anything in this section like the success of the revival, and the name of Sam Jones, the great Georgia evangilist, is blessed all over Texas.

The Yellow Fever Craft.

MOBILE, June 25.—The schooner P. C. Schultz, Thompson master, reported at Delaware Break water with yellow fever, arrived at Mobile from Aspinwall April 22d and cleared here June 30th.

Telegraphic Concessions in South America.

BUENOS AYRES, June 25.—Minister Osborn, acting in accordance with instructions received from the state department at Washington, has concluded a contract securing to the Central and South American telegraph company a concession to establish cables between Buenos Ayres and Rio de Janeiro, and the land lines between Buenos Ayres and the Pacific side.

A BOOMING "4TH."

ATLANTA WILL TAKE A HAND IN THE NATIONAL FESTIVITIES.

A Pyrotechnic Display—A Baseball Tournament—A Balloon Ascension—Military Drill and Parade—A Big Day all Round and a Gloriously Good Time Generally.

Atlanta has determined to join Nashville, Chattanooga and Macon, in giving the glorious Fourth a fitting celebration.

"This is the first Fourth the south has seen since 1860 that she can feel she has an interest in, and that she can celebrate with her whole heart and soul. A democratic administration has been elected; sectional lines are wiped out; the south is back in the union, an equal and a permanent part, and all her people ought to jubilate on the glorious day that celebrates the declaration of American independence! Let us have a rousing day?"

THE BASEBALL ASSOCIATION TAKES A HAND.

This has been the feeling of our people for a month past, and they have watched with impatience the progress of a "celebrating programme" in other cities, while Atlanta was doing nothing. There seemed to be nobody sufficiently interested, to take hold, organize and make it a success. On yesterday in response to many requests, the Atlanta Baseball association determined to test the matter and see what could be done. The hearty encouragement they met with on yesterday showed that the folks were ready and anxious, and that a great success could be scored. They are now at work on a detailed programme, of which the following points are already agreed on.

1. A BASEBALL TOURNAMENT—Two games of baseball will be played at the park, morning and afternoon. These games will be called after the trains have arrived and finished before they leave. The games will be played with the strongest clubs in the league, and the best of sport may be looked for.

2. THE GRANDEST OF PYROTECHNICS DISPLAY.—This will be a great feature of the day. The display advertised for tonight has been postponed until the night of the 4th. It is unquestionably the most elaborate and costly display ever made in a southern state, and utterly unlike anything ever seen here. The following is the partial programme of the display:

PART FIRST.

Music.

Illumination of park, showing set pieces in position.

Springing of star mines, ejecting vari colored stars, meteors, etc., high in air. Very exciting.

Flight of colored rockets, throwing out large stars, serpents and variagated streamers.

Ascent of illuminated balloon, discharging showers of golden rain, bursting bombs, and lightning meteors.

Set piece, representing silver fountain.

Flight of pearl rockets, throwing off streamers of brilliant meteors, terminating in showers of gold.

Set piece, representing morning glory.

Passage of parachute rockets, with floating stars, changeable colors. Beautiful design.

Set piece representing gypsy dance.

Flight of comet rockets, displaying a series of comets and revolving in descent in circles of gold.

Set piece, representing tree of liberty.

Discharge of triple bouquet rockets, making three distinct displays in its flight, producing every color known to the science.

Ascension of meteoric balloon ... producing a brilliant aerial illumination, discharging during its flight fire works in great variety of color and design. The most beautiful exhibition known to pyrotechny.

Simultaneous discharge of 100 rockets.

Interspersion of small pieces, etc , etc.

Music.

STORMING THE CASTLE.

Representing an engagement between three field batteries and a battle line of infantry storming a castle, mounting eight guns and two mortars, and gallantly defended by a garrison.

Features of the battle—Opening of battery No. 1, —Reply from parapet gun of castle. Opening of battery No. 2, and advance of skirmishers. Opening of battery No. 3, Reply from all ports of castle, producing grand artillery duel. Advance of battle line. Gate City Guards carrying castle by assault. Burning of castle and explosion of magazine. Sun rising over ruins of castle.

The artillery will be commadded by Captain Detwiller and Lieutenant Funston. Battle line will be commanded by Lieutenant Macon Spencer, of Gate City Guards, assisted by Lieutenant Wm. M. Camp. The castle will be under command of Captain F. Holland.

All entirely free from danger, both to participants and audience.

Athletic park will be enclosed with canvass to the height of twenty-five feet, to cut off view from the outside. The grounds will be beautifully illuminated with tri colored lanterns.

3. A BALLOON ASCENSION.—This will be a feature. A monster balloon carrying two passengers, and filled with fireworks, which will be fired in the air, will be sent up at mid-day. A well-known citizen of Atlanta will make the ascent with the aeronaut.

4. A MILITARY DRILL AND PARADE.—All the military companies of Atlanta will be out on the Fourth, and a military drill and target shooting will be arranged. Two bands of music have been engaged besides the local and military bands.

5. A BICYCLE RACE, AND A RACE BETWEEN BICYCLES AND HORSES.—The details of this feature cannot yet be given, but it will be one of the big features of the day.

THE RAILROADS COMING IN.

The different railroads take hold of the matter in earnest, and will do all they can to make the day a success. The East Tennessee and Virginia railroad has already announced round trip tickets from Macon and Rome at $1 and from Chattanooga at $1.50. The West Point road will fit up eighty-five cars for excursions and hopes to surpass its "big 4th," when it brought in 5,000 people. All the roads will do their part, as we will be able to show by full detail in a day or two.

THE BANKERS AND BROKERS.

The Game of Ball Day Before Yesterday at Athletic Park.

Those who did not see the game of ball day before yesterday afternoon between the Bankers and the Brokers at Athletic park missed a treat.

The Bankers downed the Brokers, but it was no fault of the Brokers.

The score at the end of the ninth inning stood, Bankers 34, Brokers 29.

The two batteries were good and their support was well up. The Brokers presented Phelps and Parker, and the Bankers Pertell and Pierce. The P's seemed to have the day. Phelps' pitching was phenomenal—for a defeat. He showed up all the curves and sent the sphere across the plate slow or fast, as he desired. He was well supported by Parker, and for the first five innings the Bankers could not get a base hit. After that, however, they pounded Phelps for base hits, two baggers, three baggers and home runs at will. Pertell, who occupied the box for the Bankers, did some good work. He showed evident talent for the position. He was well supported by Pierce.

The game was greatly enjoyed by the crowd present.

THE WICKED WORKERS.

Stealing Frank Perkins' Watch—A Mule Thief Again—Pulling a Disorderly House.

Night before last a burglar entered Mr. S. Frank Perkins' room, at 126 South Forsyth street, and stole a fine gold watch and a few dollars in money. Mr. Perkins sleeps in a room on the second floor of the building. The burglar gained the window to his room by climbing up the lattice work on the porch and landing near the window. He then leisurely went through Mr. Perkins' room. From Mr. Perkins' vest pocket the burglar took the watch and four or five dollars in money. The watch was attached to a fine chain, but the burglar did not fancy the chain and left it. Had the burglar called the night before he would have been well repaid for his perilous work, as Mr. Perkins then had two or three hundred dollars in his vest pocket.

RAIDING A DISORDERLY HOUSE.

For some time past citizens residing near the corner of Mitchell and Forsyth streets have been greatly annoyed by the boisterous and disorderly conduct of some negroes who occupy rooms on the second floor of a building on that corner. Yesterday several complaints were lodged at police headquarters against the place, and last night Acting Captain Brening organized a raid which was successful, six or eight negro women, two or three negro men and one white man were pulled in. They will all appear in police court this morning.

AFTER A STOLEN MULE.

Yesterday William Hardeman, of Pike county, reached Atlanta in pursuit of a fine mule, which was stolen from him Monday night or Tuesday morning. The mule was taken from the barn lot and was evidently ridden away, as a halter was missing from the stable. The mule is a large black mare, about six years of age. Mr. Hardeman lives about eleven miles from Griffin, and had no trouble in tracing the mule to that place. From what he could ascertain on the road he is induced to believe that the thief is a young negro.

A BLACK CHARGE.

A White Man's Dark Crime—An Arrest Yesterday Morning in Atlanta.

Frank Hitchins, a middle aged white man of good appearance, is occupying a cell in the city prison.

Hitchins is charged with a grave crime.

The crime was committed, so it is alleged, in Oglethorpe county about three years ago. Hitchens was then living in Oglethorpe and was well thought of. One morning a small colored girl whose home was near Hitchins, told a most revolting story, in which Hitchins figured in a bad light. At first no one believed the girl's story, but subsequent events changed public opinion, and Hitchins skipped out. After his departure the people made up a purse of fifty dollars which was offered for his arrest. Hitchins, however, kept clear until last night. Early yesterday afternoon Detective Mercer ascertained that Hitchins was in the city. He soon succeeded in spotting and shadowing him until after dark. Then the detective sought Captain Moon, who with Patrolman Aldridge accomplished Hitchins' arrest. When the officers came down on Hitchins he was quartered in Clara Thomas' place on Bartow street. He objected to being arrested but together with his baggage was removed to the city prison about four o'clock yesterday morning.

Hitchins denies being the man for whom the officers are looking. The sheriff of Oglethorpe has been notified of the arrest and the prisoner will be held until the sheriff is heard from.

MEXICAN FINANCES.

The Bankers and Railroad Directors in Consultation.

CITY OF MEXICO, June 25.—A committee, composed of the directors of the National bank, waited upon the government, today, in reference to the application of the new law as far as that institution is concerned. The committee was informed that the provisions of the recent decree were applicable to the National bank.

Representatives, including the attorneys of the Mexican Central and Mexican National railroads, met to day to consider the effect of the new decree on these roads, and what action was proper in the premises, but no decisive action taken. There is a general sentiment of relief noticable among the mercantile community, believing as they do that the crises has passed, that business will improve, and that there will certainly be more money in circulation. The government has sold $4,000,000 worth of nickel coin, stored up at palace, since what is known as the "nickel riot," at a nominal value, to a London bank, acting as agents. The amount paid was $800,000. The nickel is already on its way to England.

Atlanta in the G. A. R.

PORTLAND, Me., June 25.—[Special.]—For junior vice-commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, General Grosvenor, of Ohio, nominated General Lewis, of Atlanta, and on the second ballot he was selected over Duby, of New York; Pierce, of Massachusetts; and Van Sykel, of New Jersey, and amidst hearty and prolonged applause his election was made unanimous. This is a great honor for Atlanta, as no canvass was made before his name was presented. He was escorted to the platform and made an eloquent speech.

The Grand Army elect Generaal S. Burdett, of Washington, commander-in-chief. For senior vice commander-in-chief ex-Governor Seldon Cannon, of Maine, was chosen by acclamation.

The Franco-Chinese Treaty.

PARIS, June 25.—In the chamber of deputies to-day, a committee was elected to examine the Franco-Chinese treaty submitted on Monday by M. De Freycenet, minister for foreign affairs. The treaty defines the rights of France over Annam, fixes the boundary line between the Chinese and French dependencies, and determines the conditions upon which the commercial regulations of China are to be maintained.

Politics in Spain.

MADRID, June 25.—The republican journals are clamoring for a coalition of all republican sections to prepare for the impending struggle. The Republica, alluding to the revolution, says that a few days ago it was probable, today it is certain. The Epoca and other ministerial journals, urge energetic measures of suppression. The public is excited.

Fifteen Thousand Dollars Lost.

NEW ORLEANS, June 25.—The store room containing empty kegs and coal belonging to the Louisiana Brewing company, was burned this morning. The loss is $15,000; insured in local companies.

The Schools of France.

PARIS, June 25.—The chamber of deputies adopted a bill to authorize the issue of bonds to the amount of 319,000,000 francs to improve the schools and parish roads.

Killed by Lightning.

STARKVILLE, Miss., June 25.—During a thunderstorm this afternoon, the barn of W. B. Montgomery was struck by lightning, killing Montgomery's son, Wa... aged ten years, who was in the building at the time. The lightning set fire to the barn, which was consumed.

In the Inerest of Retrenchment.

CINCINNATI, June 25.—E. O. Wilson will retire from his position as general passenger agent of the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific road on July 1st. His duties will be transferred to H. Colpman, present general freight agent. The change is made in the interest of retrenchment.

"Throw Physic to the Dogs"

when it is the old-fashioned blue mass, blue pill sort, and insist on using Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," a modern medical luxury, being small, sugar-coated granules, containing the active principles of certain roots and herbs, and which will be found to contain as much cathartic power as any of the old-fashioned larger pills, without the latter's violent, drastic effects. The pellets operate thoroughly but harmlessly, establishing a permently healthy action of the stomach and bowels, and as an anti-bilious remedy are unequaled.

The French Navy.

LONDON, June 25.—A dispatch from Paris to the Exchange telegraph company says: "Admiral Goliber, minister of marine and the colonies, threatens to resign. The reason given for this proposed retirement of the admiral is that he differs from the other members of the government upon the subject of increasing the navy. In connection with this threatened resignation of Admiral Goliber, the rumor is current that other changes in the ministry are likely soon to take place."

THERE MAY BE A FEW

Who Still Doubt

If so they will find in our office many such letters as the following, but none that are entitled to more consideration:

With my experience I pronounce

Brewer's Lung Restorer

the best lung remedy made. Four of my brothers and sisters had died with consumption, and about three years ago I became so exhausted by a long continued cough, accompanied with low fever and night sweats, that I could barely get about and my friends gave up all hope. I coughed so incessantly that I could not sleep at all. After trying several lung medicines I began the use of

and was greatly benefited by the first bottle, gaining flesh and strength, and resuming work. I continued to take it and am as stout now as I ever was, rarely ever cough nor do I suffer with my lungs ady more than they never had been affected.

I am never without a bottle of it in my house. During the winter I give it to my little children, even a little fellow three years old, for anything like common colds, or when they show any evidence of croup and always with the most satisfactory results. Very tuly,

G. E. HUGELY,
Barnesville, Georgia.

Brewer's Lung Restorer contains no opiates in any form.

Notice to Insurance Companies.

STATE OF GEORGIA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

ORDERED: THAT ALL INSURANCE COMPANIES in this state, or doing business therein, shall, through their chief officer or agent, residing in this state, report to the governor a full and exact statement of their condition on June 30, 1885.

The reports called for by this order must comply in every particular with the requirements of the law as set forth in section 2,843, (a) of the Revised Code of Georgia, (1882) and must be filed in this office, on July 1, 1885, or within sixty days thereafter. Said reports must be published as required by section 2,843 (b) of said Code, and a copy of the published statement sent to this office.

A failure to comply with this law subjects the company to a penalty, which is a forfeiture of its right to do business in this state, and causes a revocation of such company's license.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Stocks as Reported in the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, June 25.—One of the principal features of today's stock market has been the heavy break in Pacific Mail, accompanied by very large transactions in that stock. There were rumors on the street early this morning that the company had lost one of its steamers, and later in the day a statement was circulated that the City of Tokio, bound from San Francisco to Yokohoma and Hong Kong, was stranded at Yokahoma, and making little water, but that assistance had been sent. After opening a shade lower, this stock rapidly sold down on the rumor before anything definite was known to 50⅞. It closed at 51½, a net loss of 3¾ per cent. The general list was strong in the early dealings and the market decidedly active, especially for Grangers, Vanderbilts, Lackawanna, Louisville and Nashville, and Union Pacific. The weakness in Pacific Mail had a depressing tendency upon the market and quotations yielded a fraction. During the afternoon prices were comparatively steady and business much more restricted until late in the day, when there was another decline, followed by a reaction in which the late losses were recovered, the market closing steady at prices which are neither the highest nor lowest, but generally ¼ to ½ per cent lower than the close last evening. Delaware and Hudson, however, is given 1⅜ per cent, and Grangers are higher. St. Paul was the strongest stock on the list, closing ⅛ per cent higher. Sales 293,000 shares.

Exchange 484¼. Money 1½@1. Sub-treasury balances: Coin $154 287,080; currency $20,275,000. Governments strong; 4s 123¾; 3s 104. State bonds quiet.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movements in Grain and Produce.

By telegraph to The Constitution.

CHICAGO, June 25—There was a fair degree of activity in the grain pits to-day, wheat as usual enlisting the greatest share of attention. The opening in wheat was a shade firm, due to a statement that the amount on passage to Europe had decreased somewhat more than two million bushels during the week. There were numerous orders to sell long wheat, however, and under this pressure prices fell off to the lowest point of the week, but buying was good all the while, and there was a rather sharp reaction toward opening figures. During the latter part of the day there was only light trading, but prices remained moderately firm, and the closing figures were about the same as yesterday. Reports from the wheat growing districts were conflicting, but were generally of an unfavorable tenor, and a prediction was made that the yield in Tennessee, Kentucky, Kansas and Missouri would even be less than last month's bulletins indicated. A report was also circulated that the wheat products in certain portions of Red river valley were not so promising as had recently been reported. The market moved along, however, without any special feature. Export clearings were fair. Receipts here continue free, and were estimated up to the full average for tomorrow.

The corn market was rather quiet on speculative account, but speculative offerings were not large, and the market ruled firm and closed a shade higher.

The oats market ruled slightly easier with only limited trading.

Provisions quiet and very little change.

GLAD GRADUAT[ES]

FROM THE BOY'S AND THE[GIRLS'] HIGH SCHOOLS.

Interesting Exercises at [the O]perahouse [Yesterday] Morning and Last Night—The Address [of Dr.] Armstrong to the Girl Graduates—[Ex]ercises for To-day and To-nig[ht].

A portion of the commencement ex[ercises of] the Girls' High school occurred [yesterday] morning at DeGive's opera house.

Quite a large audience assembled [to witness] the interesting occasion.

At ten o'clock the curtain arose and [disclosed] the class seated in a semi circle on [the stage.] Major Slaton, superintendent of publ[ic schools,] Miss Salouel McKinley, principal of [the Girls'] High school, and several members of [the board] of education, together with several p[rominent] citizens, were upon the stage. The [stage was] tastefully decorated. The young la[dies were] all attired in white.

Prayer was offered by Rev. E. H. [...]

The first appearance of the young l[adies was] in a beautiful chorus "May Bells a[nd Flow]ers," by Mendlesohn. This chorus [was led] by Professor Wm. F. Clarke on a vi[olin, and] was one of the sweetest and best [...] pieces of music ever rendered by a gr[aduating] class at DeGive's

Major Slaton was master of ceremo[nies and] announced the different parts of [the pro]gramme.

Miss Diddie Cheney read an excell[ent com]position on "Curiosity."

"On Every Height there Lies Repos[e," was] a well written essay by Miss Mary Fa[...]

"Do the Work of Love and Duty," a[n essay] by Miss Sarah Wilson, was interesti[ng and] well delivered.

Miss Jennie Mallard recited a s[...] "Jamie" in an excellent manner.

Mizpah Waltzes, was excellently pl[ayed by] Miss Diddie Cheney.

Miss Sallie Long read a good essay [on] "A Medley."

"True Culture," by Miss Tessye Smi[th, was] a well written and well delivered essay[...]

"Beauty is but a Dewdrop, Know[ledge a] Sunbeam," by Miss Lizzie Eberhart, [was an] interesting composition and received [much] applause.

One of the very best pieces of the o[ccasion] was a recitation, "Whistling in Heav[en," by] Miss Julia Mattison. The audience w[as] entertained by her. The piece was fau[ltlessly] delivered.

The class sang the "Sweedish Song[...]" sweetly, charming the audience.

A beautiful essay was read by Miss [...] Bradley on the "Dignity of Labor." [...] an exceedingly interesting paper, a[nd was] well read.

Miss Annie Morrison read an excell[ent es]say on candor.

An admirable recitation, "She wa[nted to] learn Elocution," by Miss Lizzie Fry, captivated the audience.

"Gently Fall the Dews of Eve," wa[s sung] by the class.

Miss Sallie Carter read one of the best[...] the best composion of the occasion. It [was] "The Goal Not Yet." It was read wi[th] easy grace and in a distinct tone an[d was] roundly applauded by the audience.

"The Spinning Wheel," a recitati[on by] Miss Fay Scott, was excellent and de[serves] special mention.

Miss Annie Clarke recited "Guilty o[r Not] Guilty" in a way that won for her muc[h ap]plause.

Misses Fry and Cheney gave an exc[ellent] rendition of "Ventre du Terre."

Miss Jennie Hardin, Miss Annie Sha[...] Miss Sallie Sanders and Miss Annie W[...] had prepared essays but were excused [from] reading them.

DR. ARMSTRONG'S ADDRESS.

Dr. J. G. Armstrong, was introduced by [Maj]or Slaton and delivered the oration of the o[c]casion. Dr. Armstrong said:

After you young ladies have read, and this audience has so attentively and becomingly listened to these well prepared compositions, I do not think that it would be in good taste, nor do I thi[nk] that it would be just to you or this audience fo[r me] further to strain your minds with an elaborat[e ad]dress or your patience with a lengthy one.

And yet I would not have you think that [I do] not highly value the honor you have done [me in] inviting me to address you, or that I have [failed] to rise to a due appreciation of the importan[ce of] the occasion. Had I not regarded the occasi[on as] one of much more than ordinary importance [and] worthy under fitting circumstances of the [...] best address that I could prepare, I should no[t be] here at all. I think that the graduation of a [class] from the public high school is of sufficient im[port]ance as an event to kindle and draw out the i[nterest of the] best citizens of the place.

I wish, then, to state distinctly and emp[hati]cally that I have a deep interest in and symp[athy] with the public school system of our cou[ntry.] The first educational work, I might say, ind[eed] the first work of any kind th[at I] ever performed, was teaching in a [pub]lic or common school. The first wages or s[alary] that I ever received was for that work; and th[ough] the first quarterly payment was not a large am[ount,] it gave my boyhood heart a satisfaction and [...] that I have rarely, if ever, since experienced. [Al]though manhood has come to me, and I have [had] in the meantime, no little experience in teac[hing] in other departments and institutions, I rega[rd it] as no shame today to say that I was once, and [for] some years, a teacher in our common sch[ools.] Nor ever since has my interest in and symp[athy] with these schools waned. Though my life-w[ork] is now, as it has been for a quarter of a cent[ury,] somewhat removed from them, I have ever [felt] that they and I have still much interest in c[om]mon; and wherever I have been located I h[ave] given them my best influence, and extended [to] them whatever encouragement and aid I co[uld.] As I view the pulpit—engaged as it should b[e in] the great work of elevating man in all the ph[ases] of his being—in educing and strengthening [...] the legitimate instincts of his complex natu[re, I] cannot but feel that it ought to evince interes[t in] and as far as possible ally itself with all the ed[uca]tional forces of its country and age. And now having said [so] much, I am not afraid of be[ing] justly called "a traitor in the camp" when I r[ecur] with a good degree of sanction to some of the [ad]verse criticisms that have been made upon [our] common schools. "Faithful," it is said, "are [the] wounds of a friend;" and I am very clear in [my] conscience that if I inflict any wounds they [will] not be those of a foe. GLAD GRADUATES

FROM THE BOY'S AND THE GIRL'S HIGH SCHOOLS.

Interesting Exercises at the Operahouse Yesterday Morning and Last Night—The Address of Dr. Armstrong to the Girl Graduates—Exercises for To-day and To-night.

A portion of the commencement exercises of the Girls' High school occurred yesterday morning at DeGive's opera house.

Quite a large audience assembled to attend the interesting occasion.

At ten o'clock the curtain arose and revealed the class seated in a semi circle on the stage. Major Slaton, superintendent of public schools, Miss Salouel McKinley, principal of the Girls' High school, and several members of the board of education, together with several prominent citizens, were upon the stage. The stage was tastefully decorated. The young ladies were all attired in white.

Prayer was offered by Rev. E. H. Barnett.

The first appearance of the young ladies was in a beautiful chorus "May Bells and Flowers," by Mendlessohn. This chorus was led by Professor Wm. F. Clarke on a violin and was one of the sweetest and best executed pieces of music ever rendered by a graduating class at DeGive's

Major Slaton was master of ceremonies and announced the different parts of the programme.

Miss Diddie Cheney read an excellent composition on "Curiosity."

"On Every Height there Lies Repose," was a well written essay by Miss Mary Fain.

"Do the Work of Love and Duty," an essay by Miss Sarah Wilson, was interesting and well delivered.

Miss Jennie Mallard recited a selection "Jamie" in an excellent manner.

Mizpah Waltzes, was excellently played by Miss Diddie Cheney.

Miss Sallie Long read a good essay entitled "A Medley."

"True Culture," by Miss Tessye Smith, was a well written and well delivered essay.

"Beauty is but a Dewdrop, Knowledge a Sunbeam," by Miss Lizzie Eberhart, was an interesting composition and received much applause.

One of the very best pieces of the occasion was a recitation, "Whistling in Heaven," by Miss Julia Mattison. The audience was well entertained by her. The piece was faultlessly delivered.

The class sang the "Sweedish Song" very sweetly, charming the audience.

A beautiful essay was read by Miss Clara Bradley on the "Dignity of Labor." It was an exceedingly interesting paper, and was well read.

Miss Annie Morrison read an excellent essay on candor.

An admirable recitation, "She wanted to learn Elocution," by Miss Lizzie Fry, quite captivated the audience.

"Gently Fall the Dews of Eve," was sung by the class.

Miss Sallie Carter read one of the best if not the best composion of the occasion. It was on "The Goal Not Yet." It was read with an easy grace and in a distinct tone and was roundly applauded by the audience.

"The Spinning Wheel," a recitation by Miss Fay Scott, was excellent and deserves special mention.

Miss Annie Clarke recited "Guilty or Not Guilty" in a way that won for her much applause.

Misses Fry and Cheney gave an excellent rendition of "Ventre du Terre."

Miss Jennie Hardin, Miss Annie Shadden, Miss Sallie Sanders and Miss Annie Wallace had prepared essays but were excused from reading them.

DR. ARMSTRONG'S ADDRESS.

Dr. J. G. Armstrong, was introduced by Major Slaton and delivered the oration of the occasion. Dr. Armstrong said:

After you young ladies have read, and this audience has so attentively and becomingly listened to these well prepared compositions, I do not think that it would be in good taste, nor do I think that it would be just to you or this audience for me further to strain your minds with an elaborate address or your patience with a lengthy one.

And yet I would not have you think that I do not highly value the honor you have done me in inviting me to address you, or that I have failed to rise to a due appreciation of the importance of the occasion. Had I not regarded the occasion as one of much more than ordinary importance and worthy under fitting circumstances of the very best address that I could prepare, I should not be here at all. I think that the graduation of a class from the public high school is of sufficient importance as an event to kindle and draw out the interest of the best citizens of the place.

I wish, then, to state distinctly and emphatically that I have a deep interest in and sympathy with the public school system of our country. The first educational work, I might say, indeed, the first work of any kind that I ever performed, was teaching in a public or common school. The first wages or salary that I ever received was for that work; and though the first quarterly payment was not a large amount it gave my boyhood heart a satisfaction and pride that I have rarely, if ever, since experienced. And though manhood has come to me, and I have had, in the meantime, no little experience in teaching in other departments and institutions, I regard it as no shame today to say that I was once, and for some years, a teacher in our common schools. Nor ever since has my interest in and sympathy with these schools waned. Though my life-work is now, as it has been for a quarter of a century, somewhat removed from them, I have ever felt that they and I have still much interest in common; and wherever I have been located I have given them my best influence, and extended to them whatever encouragement and aid I could. As I view the pulpit—engaged as it should be in the great work of elevating man in all the phases of his being—in educing and strengthening all the legitimate instincts of his complex nature, I cannot but feel that it ought to evince interest in and as far as possible ally itself with all the educational forces of its country and age. With these it has this in common, that they are both set for the improvement of men and women; and whatever honestly aims at this should have the hearty sympathy and encouragement of all good citizens. And now having said this much, I am not afraid of being justly called "a traitor in the camp" when I refer with a good degree of sanction to some of the adverse criticisms that have been made upon our common schools. "Faithful," it is said, "are the wounds of a friend;" and I am very clear in my conscience that if I inflict any wounds they will not be those of a foe. One who ... experience in these methods un...ds how this danger arises. In these schools there is a very pressing need for very strict discipline. This need arises from the mixed character of the schools. These schools, it must be remembered, are not composed exclusively of children who are surrounded by culture, and are taught good manners and respect for law and order at home. No doubt many children of this class do attend them; and no doubt their numbers are increasing year by year. But a large number are of those who may be said to have "no bringing up" at home, whose homes indeed are very largely the streets, and whose thoughts and words and habits are those of the streets. Need I say that in the government and management of such very strict discipline is needed? But discipline may be very strict without being arbitrary or mechanical. Indeed, only that discipline that is rational and that appeals to the reason can be truly corrective and elevating. It may be that the boy who has contracted his habits in streets has ... much reason to which ... It does not even strengthen—indeed ...eatly to weaken the memory. It for... the habit of easily committ... ...ory, but that is all. In the ...ercise the only faculty that is called into play is the memory, and this is impaired by the undue stimulus. The reasoning faculties are not summoned into activity; and there is no time or encouragement given to learn principles. Against this method, whether in the common or in private schools practiced, I would unite with all sensible parents and with all true educators, in earnestly protesting. But this aside, I believe that these schools deserve praise for their pre-eminent thoroughness in all the elementary branches. Take a boy or a girl who has passed successfully through the curriculum of our common schools, and, my word for it, you will there find a boy or girl who spells correctly, speaks grammatically, and who is very thorough in arithmetic. The almost perfectly graded system of these schools demands and secures this thoroughness. And I may freely appeal to all educated persons today—is not thoroughness in these elementary branches a great desideratum? The ruinstion intellectually or educationally of the youth of our land, and especially of the young women of our land, is that they are studying all sorts of things before they have mastered these elementary principles—that they are on the very last page of the book before they have learned perfectly the first line of page first. Ask some of your "most accomplished" young lady graduates to parse for you some of the commonest sentences in English, and how many will do it correctly? How many such will parse this: "Permit me to have my say?" Or this: "I have not yet spoken an hour?" I once said to a young lady who was nearing her graduation in college: "Well, Miss Kittie, what are you studying this session?" The answer was in a string of long and highly scientific words, including I don't know how many ologies, possibly ontology among the rest. I said: "Are you studying English grammar?" Almost insulted, she replied: "Oh, dear me; I have been through that long ago!" Poor child! She did not agree with the author of the "Diversions of Purley," that "English grammar is usually among the first things taught, but it is always one of the last things understood." Oh, it is a shame that in all our schools there is not a more thorough grinding and grounding in these elementary principles. And may the common schools never abandon their practice or sacrifice their honor in this matter, no matter how loudly unwise parents or patrons may vociferate about the little progress that their children are making.

I desire though to assign here another ground of my deep interest in our common school system. I am deeply interested in it as a citizen of Georgia and Atlanta. I believe that the success of our common school system is, if not absolutely necessary, at least greatly needed, in order to the healthy and full development of our state and city. I need not undertake to argue this position on the general principle that, all other things being equal, a state will prosper materially and politically only as the masses of its people are educated. Wide spread ignorance among the people is a dire enemy to the state's political and social, and I think I may add its moral and religious health. Wide spread ignorance is an enemy to government and impairs its usefulness, and in proportion to its extent frustrates its highest and best ends. It is on this ground that it becomes the duty of governments to provide education for the people, and that our common school system is justified. It is simply a matter of self-preservation on the part of governments. What amount or extent of education the state is bound to give has been a disputed question. As much, at least, ought to be given as will enable every citizen to understand the political institutions of the land, and as will qualify him for some useful employment. And so we think, that the constitution of the general government and of one's own state, political economy and practical industries should constitute a large part of the instruction of our high schools. This, we think, would fulfill the ends of governmental schools more effectively and better than a Latin and Greek course. And better that the state should give too much than too little education to its citizens.

But I would argue here on behalf of our common school system, for its strengthening and expansion, as being one of the most promising helps in the development of the material resources of our own state. Of these resources I need not speak at length. They are numerous and diversified. To Georgia we might almost literally apply the Deuteronomic description of "the land of promise." "It is a good land, a land of brooks, of water, of fountains and depths that spring out of valleys and hills; a land of wheat, and barley, and vines, and fig-trees, and pomegranates; a land of oil, olive and honey; a land where bread may be eaten without scarceness, where nothing is lacking: a land whose stones are iron, and out of whose hills men dig brass." It is a land

"Where children are blessings, and he that hath most,
Hath aid for his fortune, and riches to boast;
Where a man is a man, if he's willing to toil,
And the humblest may gather the fruits of the soil."

Now for the development of such a state what is one of the most needful powers? We hear much about efforts being made to induce capital to come among us. And undoubtedly such efforts are wise and worthy. But no less are there needed efforts to induce labor to come. No less are there needed among us healthy, strong working men, farmers, miners, mechanics. These are the men who are needed to open up our soil, to bring out of its depths its rich cereal and mineral treasures, and to convert its natural products into things of use and of exchange value. Bring such men into our state and they will soon create capital—capital enough for all our commercial needs and interests. And we rejoice to have had the hint that an effort will be made in the next meeting of our legislature to have that body at least give legislative sanction to the organization of a state immigration society. We hope that the effort will be made and that it will prove successful; as we believe that such a society would be a great power in the promotion of Georgia's best interests.

But I know no much stronger inducements for such people to come among us than that a thorough common school system awaits them in their new home. Certainly, but few things would tend more powerfully to discourage them from coming than the absence of thorough and free educational privileges. Such men will not be able at first to send their children to private schools, and yet they will value highly, almost above all price, their children's education. Let the agent of the immigration society be able to proclaim in his circulars that the common schools of Georgia are of sufficient number to meet the wants of a rapidly growing population, and that in respect of thoroughness they are the equals of any in the whole land; and he would undoubtedly add a very strong inducement to the men and women whom we so greatly need, to move into the state. And so, without pushing the argument further, I am fully convinced that in advocating the claims of our common school system, I am, at the same time, advocating the best interests of the state of Georgia, with whose interests my own are now heartily identified.

One more reason I must assign as operant on my mind in exciting my interest in and sympathy with these schools; and that is, that they are common. They are common, not in that they are of a low grade, but in that all classes, the lowest as well as the highest, the poorest as well as the richest may have the highest privileges and benefits of them. This, I know, is a great objection to them in the view of some. Some refined and cultivated people think that it will never do for them to send their children to schools where perhaps the large majority of the scholars are of the unrefined and uncultivated, and whose homes, as we have said, are largely on the streets. I confess that I sympathize much with this objection, as my aim would ever be to level upward, rather than downward, and as I realize the force of the holy scriptures, that "Evil company doth corrupt good manners." And the difficulty is greater in the case of girls than in that of boys. In the case of boys my vision is clear. I believe that it is according to the genius of our institutions that the American citizen should learn by experience—that he should begin at the lowest, if he would learn how to fulfill aright the functions of the highest. A man is not fully prepared to legislate for the whole people, or to execute the laws for the whole people who has not by living among them learned the thoughts and feelings of the people. And as in all the departments of life we so much need practical men—as the spirit of our nation is so pre-eminently practical, it will ever be a good schooling for a boy to have had some experience with "all sorts and conditions of men." Ours is not a country where boys are fitted for the high offices of duty and trust by handling them as eggs, or treating them as hot-house plants. They must taste the toughness, as well as the smoothness of life. They must jostle and rub against men. They must have such knowledge of men as can be gained only from personal contact with them. And I doubt very much if for these ends there is a better starting point for them than our common schools.

But however, each father may decide for himself, whether to send his boy to the public school or to a private one. Surely every man who has any interest in man as such, who would not wrap himself up in a cloak of absolute selfishness, who would sincerely desire the elevation and improvement of all classes, must accept as a divine boon, and must heartily sympathize with a system of education the privileges of which the very poorest citizen may enjoy. And by the true lover of mankind and the intelligent lover of his state, I think that no tax will be more cheerfully paid than that for the common schools. It is neither philanthropic nor patriotic to give forth the murmur, "Why should I be taxed for the education of other people's children?"

But I must not forget, young lady graduates of the High school, that I am expected to say something to you directly and personally. And of this I would remind you, that you will be taken hereafter as among the representatives of our common school system. And much will depend on you whether or not there shall be in this city a growing judgment in favor of this system. Your intellectual attainments and your lives will now be part of the evidence that the community will read in order to form their judgments as to whether or not our common schools are worthy of their confidence and patronage. It has been charged that the methods of instruction in these schools are mechanical; that their discipline is so rigid and enters into so minute details and trifles, that it is not only extremely irksome and offensive while it lasts, but that it must result in mechanical scholars and characters. It will rest with you either to strengthen or to weaken this charge. It will rest with you to show whether you have been turned out mere machines, or have assimilated to yourselves and made to yourselves practical the instructions that you have received.

And remember for your own sakes that of all abnormalities there is none more offensive to good taste than a mechanically educated woman. A woman who is learned in the learning of the schools, but whose learning has over-ridden and driven out her womanhood, is mechanically educated; and such a woman is simply a disgusing monstrosity. Not surely this will you take as your ideal. The truly educated woman is she whose intellect has been well drilled and well stored with useful information, but who has no spirit of aping masculinity, or of thrusting herself into masculine functions. And here let me say that after quite an extensive observational knowledge over this land, this is what has ever charmed me with the best type of southern woman, that the cultivation of the intellectual and sympathetic forces of her being has advanced at equal pace. It is the proper blending of these two forces that makes her in my judgment the grandest type of woman on the globe. This is the ideal for you to make real. And remember above all, that the highest of all culture is radically defective if it be not the flowers of a garden watered by the Holy Spirit of God, and warmed by the Sun of Righteousness. Push forward intellectually, but cultivate also the feminine sympathies and the fear and love of God.

MR. DAVID MAYER SPEAKS.

Mr. David Mayer, of the board of education, was called on and made a few remarks. He urged the young ladies to understand that they needed domestic education. Poetry and music, he said, were very nice, but they would not satisfy a hungry husband. Mr. Mayer spoke very feelingly of his love for the class. Most of the young ladies he had known since they entered school. He loved them, he said, and it pained him to think that he was probably meeting them for the last time. He said the board through the goodness of the city fathers, had given the graduates good educations, much better than many young ladies could get. Some of them, he said, might go to other institutions and get more of fancy education but he doubted if it would make them any happier. The board, he said, had done all that it could, and the rest remained for the graduates and their parents.

The audience was then dismissed.

The diplomas will be presented to-night by Senator Brown and the honor graduates will read their essays.

The Boys' High School.

Last night the graduating class of the Boys' High school had their closing exercises at the opera house before a large and elegant audience. On the stage appeared the members of the board of education, Governor McDaniel, Senator Brown, who is president of the board of education, the other members of the board, Congressmen Henry R. Harris and Superintendent Slaton. The class motto, "Labor and Wait," appeared at the head of the programme. The exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. Kendall. After excellent orchestral music, the salutatory was delivered by N. R. Broyles, who shared the second honor.

R. R. Arnold declaimed "Land of Memories," by A. H. Stephens.

F. R. Bidgood delivered an extract from Webster's famous "union speech." After music N. R. Broyles read an original essay on "The complete man." C. P. Fuller declaimed "Stars and Stripes" from one of Senator Hill's speeches. H. B. Gray, who shared the second honor, declaimed an extract from Senator Ransom's speech on "The South Faithful to her duties."

R. L. Hardin spoke part of Webster's "Bunker Hill oration."

H. V. Hardwick, Jr., read an original essay on "Mother," which received continued applause.

J. A. Link declaimed, "Shall Our Laurels Wither?"

B. H. Thomson, one of the first honor boys, delivered an original essay on "Hasten Slowly."

T. W. Reed, another sharer in the first honor, gave an original essay on work, "The Philosopher's Stone," after which he delivered the valedictory to the board of education and the teachers.

Fletcher S. Brockman, first honor, spoke on "Fashion," and then delivered the valedictory to the class. This graduating class has made a fine record in the High school by its department and its scholarship. Several of its members have especially distinguished themselves, while all of them have made good records. Last night they showed what sort of mettle they were made of and entertained the audience admirably. The declaimers spoke with intelligent comprehension and admirable emphasis, while the original essays betokened a vigor of thought and a versatility rarely found in boys of the age of these graduates. There were many auspicious auguries for the future of the young men who did so well last night.

After the valedictory to the class the annual address was delivered by Mr. F. H. Richardson.

His address was listened to very attentively by the audience and was frequently interrupted with applause. He spoke of the requisites of a true education, and his apt illustration, his well rounded address and his graceful oratory made his effort a notable one. The address was particularly marked by the beauty of its verbage and the strength of its figures, and in every way the appropriate theme was presented in a most interesting manner. Mr. Richardson is well known by Atlanta audiences, but on no occasion has he acquitted himself more creditably than that of last night. His happy faculty of being both gifted as to the use of his pen, and eloquent as an orator, renders it a pleasure indeed to hear him.

The diplomas were delivered by Senator Brown, who said: "Young gentlemen: When your programme was handed to me my eye fell upon your class motto. It struck me as being a very good one, "Labor and Wait." I should like to address you on these words. But the lateness of the hour reminds me of the proprieties of the occasion and I shall adopt the latter part of your motto and wait for a more appropriate time. [Applause.] Senator Brown then delivered diplomas to the following graduates:

R. R. Arnold,	Jno. R. Bidgood,
Fletcher S. Brockman,	N. R. Broyles,
C. P. Fuller, (partial course)	H. B. Gray,
R. L. Hardin,	H. V. Hardwick, Jr.,
J. A. Link,	T. W. Reed,
J. L. Reneau,	B. H. Thompson.

As the boys walked up to receive their diplomas they were applauded. They received every evidence of the favor of their audience, and each had a burden of lovely flowers to bear home as the trophy of his efforts. It was a noble set of young fellows who will doubtless reflect honor on their "alma mater." The entire exercises were only about two hours and a quarter and the attention of the audience was admirable throughout.

Professor Bass, the principal of the Boys' High school, after thanking the audience for its attention and good order, declared the exercises at an end.

TODAY'S EXERCISES.

The closing examinations of the six white and the three colored grammar schools will occur today from 9 to 1 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend, and the exercises will be found very interesting. To-night at the opera house the five honor girls of the High school will read essays. There will be no regular address. Senator Brown will deliver the diplomas to the graduating class of twenty-three young ladies. The exercises will be brief and attractive. The Girls High school never fails to draw a fine house.

Atlanta Public Schools.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION—The exercises of the Girls' High school, at the operahouse yesterday (Thursday), were of an order extremely gratifying to the patrons and friends of our admirable public school system, and creditable in a high degree to Superintendant Slaton and his corps of accomplished and faithful assistants. The essays and recitations of the graduating young ladies were exceptionally good. When all did so remarkably well and acquitted themselves with so much credit, it is a task to say who excelled; still we trust that we will not be thought partial if, among all those who acted so splendidly, we say that the recitation of Miss Lizzie Fry showed this young lady to possess dramatic talent of an unusually high order.

Her recitation called "She wanted to learn elocution" was a master piece. Her rendition of it was perfect, and we feel sure that we but voice the sentiment of all who heard it when we say that its reproduction on this (Friday) evening would be highly enjoyed by all who may be present, and not only this, but will show how thorough and accurate is the training to be had at the hands of our public school teachers. We trust that at some appropriate time in the evening's proceedings Major Slaton will request, and that Miss Fry will consent, again to favor the public with this splendid recitation.

Respectfully,
A PATRON OF THE SCHOOL.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Monroe died yesterday afternoon at their home on Fair street.

A pleasant shower fell yesterday afternoon about one o'clock and cooled the air considerably.

Quite a crowd went out to the Grant park yesterday afternoon. The Ponce de Leon cars were well crowded, too.

The board of street commissioners held a called session yesterday, but no business of any importance was transacted.

The pyrotechnic display at the baseball park, advertised for to-night, has been postponed until the fourth of July.

Sam Edwards, a negro man, nearly ninety years of age, dropped dead yesterday afternoon at his home on Green's Ferry avenue.

The candidates for city offices are getting around at a lively rate, and the members of the general council are doing some tall dodging.

See advertisement of Misses. Curran 36 E. 29th st., New York city. Our readers will find this a pleasant boarding house and their rates reasonable.

Ellington, the hack driver who was knocked in the head Saturday night by Bill Baldwin, is still alive. His condition is yet uncertain. Baldwin is in jail.

The funeral of Mrs. Annie Connolly yesterday was largely attended. The church was densely crowded and the services were exceedingly impressive. The Rev. Father Kirsch conducted the services. The remains were laid to rest in Oakland.

THE CONSTITUTION has received invitations to annual banquets of the Alpha Tau Omega and Kappa Alpha fraternities, at the approaching commencement at Emory college. The A. T. O. banquet will be given at the residence of Dr. A. G. Haygood, and the K. A's. will entertain at the home of Professor C. E. Dowman. We predict that each will prove "a feast of reason and a flow of soul."

Last night as the Central passenger train was passing West End some miscreant threw a stone into the cab window, striking Engineer Alex Bright on the head. The stone was a large one, and the wound inflicted was quite severe. The train was running about twenty-five miles an hour at the time. When the train reached East Point the conductor telegraphed the facts to Mr. Schmidt, the road's agent in this city. Mr. Schmidt at once reported the matter at police headquarters.

Yesterday afternoon, Mr. C. P. White's little daughter, Lula, was severely bitten by a large bull dog. The dog belonged to Mr. White, and has never shown a vicious quality until yesterday. He has always been allowed to roam about the yard and has been almost a playmate for the children. Yesterday afternoon, however, he sprang upon the little girl as she was passing through the front yard and bit her horribly in the arm and shoulder. Mr. White lives on Harris street, and immediately after the dog bit his daughter he induced Patrolman Abbott to kill the brute. One pistol shot ended the dog's career.

A TERRIBLE FALL.

A Painter Falls Forty Feet and is Seriously, Probably Fatally Injured.

Alex Howard, a painter, dropped forty feet yesterday afternoon and will probably die of the injuries sustained.

Howard was painting N. G. Williams's house on Luckie street. When he knocked off for dinner he had just completed the eaves of the building and when he resumed work after dinner he made his ladder, an extension ladder, short enough to allow the end to rest against the side of the house just below the eaves so that he might paint the weatherboarding. After shortning the ladder, Howard took his brush and paintpot and went up. He had just hung his pot on the ladder and was in the act of dipping the brush into the paint when the ladder began to sink under him. There was nothing for Howard to catch at and in a second he was on the ground in an unconscious condition. His fall was caused by the fastening which held the ladder at a given length, being insecure. Howard's fall was witnessed by Mrs. Williams and her servant only. They were the only persons about the house at the time. The servant hurried for a physician, and Dr. Griffin responded. It was a half hour after the fall before the physician arrived, and Howard was still unconscious. The doctor examined him and found that his left shoulder had been dislocated and that his right leg and two ribs had been broken. In the course of an hour Howard came to his senses. He suffered intense pain and barely survived his removal to his home on Forsyth street. Dr. Griffin rendered the necessary surgical attention. At a late hour last night Howard was in a critical condition and the doctor entertains doubts as to his recovery.

SCHOOL OF SS. PETER AND PAUL.

A Pleasing Celebration of Father McMahon's School.

At 3:30 p.m. yesterday quite a large audience of parents and friends assembled at the school room of the Catholic parish of SS. Peter and Paul to witness the commencement exercises of that institution. The room was tastefully decorated. The performance began by a march in which all the children took part. This was followed by a number of recitations, charades, songs, and finally the crowning of the queen of May. Miss Emma Walter's, who took the part of queen, acted her part with great success. Among those who were especially notable were Miss Frances Schmidt, Miss Mamie Bent, Miss Lotta Heyback and Miss B. Bryan.

There were present twenty-two girls and thirty boys. Their exercises proved them to have been under excellent training. Appropriate prizes were presented by Father McMahon, after which they were given their annual vacation until next September.

GETTING AWAY WITH LINEN.

A Washerwoman Carries Off Two Weeks' Washing and Keeps It.

William L. Bryan, the jeweler at 85 Decatur street, has been robbed of about seventy-five dollars worth of wearing apparel.

Mr. Bryan resides at No. 42 North Forsyth street.

Some three weeks ago Mrs. Bryan's regular washerwoman sent word that she was sick and would not be able to do any washing that week. Mrs. Bryan was in no hurry about the washing and allowed the soiled linen to accumulate until two weeks had passed. She then sent to her washerwoman but was again informed that she was sick.

Early last week a colored girl who gave her name as Fannie Hilburn called at Mrs. Bryan's kitchen door and asked for the washing. Mrs. Bryan asked the girl who had sent her. She replied by saying Mr. Bryan had told her to call for the clothing. Mrs. Bryan counted out the articles and gave them to the girl who, in response to a question, said that she lived on Gilmer street. When Mr. Bryan reached home at dinner that day Mrs. Bryan ascertained that the negro girl had not seen her husband. However, they paid but little attention to that until the last of the week when the girl failed to return the clothing. A search for her was instituted the first of the present week, but without success. Yesterday Mr. Bryan visited police headquarters and reported the transaction. He left a description of the stolen articles and detectives are now hunting for the woman.

COURT NOTES.

Points Picked Up Yesterday at the Courthouse by the Constitution Reporters.

Rachel White has entered a suit against the Central railroad for $10,000 for the homicide of her husband, James J. White.

Mrs. F. B. Mulligan has entered a suit for divorce against her husband, G. B. Mulligan. They were married in 1879. The wife alleges cruel treatment.

Charles Knox, by his next friend, P. P. Knox, has sued Trayham & Ray for damages for getting his hand mashed in some machinery.

The jury in the Beninger case failed to agree, and yesterday about ten o'clock a mistrial was ordered. The jury stood six and six on the question of guilty or not guilty. Beninger is still in jail.

Yesterday Judge Lumpkin adjourned the superior court until Monday.

Judge Speer did not decide the Ralston will case yesterday, but expects to decide it next Thursday, if he can possibly get through with the record.

Yesterday in the superior court Thomas Parlk was convicted of rape and was sent up for four years.

Mr. J. H. Dent and wife, of Newnan, are visiting friends and relatives in the city.

Mr. M. M. Brannan, editor of the Eufaula Daily Mail, was in the city yesterday. It is the belief of many Alabamians that the rabbit's foot sent by Editor Brannon to President Cleveland at the opening of the campaign had much to do with the happy result.

THE GREAT ANNISTON INN.

One of the Finest, Most Complete in all its Appointments, The Most Home-like, the Best in the World,

Is Open to The Public.

THIS INN HAS BEEN BUILT IN ONE of the healthiest and most charming locations in the south, commanding the most beautiful scenery, the purest air, the healthiest water and the most delightful climate in the world; built one thousand feet above the gulf on an elevation on which the shady Mountain valley centres from every point, giving it the coolest summer breezes, making it one of the most delightful summer places on the continent. This Inn supplies a long felt want to the people of the south, within a few hours' travel of New Orleans, Mobile, Vicksburg, Montgomery, Selma, Eufaula, Columbus, Macon and Atlanta, Rome, Chattanooga and Knoxville. This Inn should commend itself to the commercial traveller, the business man, the overworked, the nervous, weary and broken down invalid as a place of comfort and rest, where the system will be built up, the nerves soothed and quited, within easy distance of their homes to which they can, in emergency, quickly return; avoiding heat, dust, fatigue and expense of summer travel to the north and west.

The table is supplied with everything the markets afford, the cooking and service is the very best. The rooms are large, bright and elegantly furnished and ventilated, while every modern comfort and convenience has been provided for guests.

Nowhere else has so much been done to provide for the comfort of guests. Summer mileage rates, stop over and palace car tickets, etc., on sale in all southern cities. Rates from $35 00 to $100 per month. For rooms apply in advance to

H. HARDELL, Manager.

FROM THE CAPIT[AL]

THE FEARS OF THE IND[IANS] KANSAS.

The Governor Calls for the Protection [illegible] Government—The Case of Consu[l Jonas]—New Appointments Made—Turni[ng] the Old Rats—Political Gos[sip]

Washington, June 26.—Senat[or] [illegible] today received a telegram from the [governor] of Kansas, saying that an incursion [of Chey]ennes, similar to that of 1878, is ap[prehended], and that great uneasiness pre[vails]. [illegible] western part of Kansas has been [illegible] filled up this season, and the new [illegible] in a very defenseless condition. [illegible] Martin, therefore, express[ed] an e[arnest desire] that the secretary of war shou[ld station troops] on the southwestern border [illegible] to guard against any attacks from th[e Indians]. Secretary Endicott being out of the [city], [Sen]ator Ingalls called on the president [with the tele]gram, and was assured that the [matter had] been the subject of earnest conside[ration] [by] the president and his cabinet, [and that ef]fective measures have been taken, b[y the] interior and war departments, to p[revent, if pos]sible, any outbreak of Indians a[nd to suppre]ss it promptly, should one occur. [illegible]

[T]he work of placing lightning rod[s] [illegible] of the Washington monument, [illegible] [com]pleted. It is thought that all [illegible] [m]onument from lightning, will [illegible]

[illegible] Paymaster Deering and Bar[illegible] [illegible]ter general's office, were [illegible] [illegible]ty today, and placed in w[illegible] [T]his action was taken becau[se] [illegible] best to have the office in ne[illegible] [th]e court martial of the chi[ef] [illegible] and not because the officer[s] [illegible] [ou]ght to have had any c[illegible] [illegible] irregularities charged ag[illegible] [illegible] the division.

THE CASE OF JONAS.

The following card is published to[uching the mat]ter relative to Charles Jonas, lately appoint[ed consul] to Prague, against whom charges h[ave been] preferred by the Austrian governme[nt]:

"Mr. Jonas did not run away from Bo[hemia in] 1860, in order to escape military servic[e], [nor] was he arrested there in 1872 and release[d through] the intercession of the American minist[er, nor] did he ever start or edit a German [paper in] Racine, Wis., and "caused it to be inte[rdicted by] the Austrian emperor," as you express[ed it]. [The] facts in the case are these: Charles Jo[nas was a] student in the university at Prague du[ring the] riots of 1848, and his patriotic behavior [through]out that eventful year, brought upon [him the] strong arm of absolutism, to avoid w[hich he] was compelled to fly the country. [He re]turned to Bohemia on a visit, he wa[s not in the] least molested. At present, and for y[ears] [illegible] has been proprietor and editor of [illegible] paper, the Slavie, in Racine, Wisco[nsin]."

NEW APPOINTMENTS.

The president appointed the follow[ing col]lectors of customs to-day:

Joseph B O'Brien, for the district of [illegible]

John E. Grady, for the district of Apala[chicola], Florida.

The "Butler house force" of senate employes, consisting of three messengers at salaries of $1,440 each, two janitors at $900 and seve[ral] laborers at $720, will be dropped from [the] pay rolls of the sergeant-at-arms at th[e end] of the present month. Those men are all republicans. At the same time one [assist]ant doorkeeper of the senate, at $1,80[0], [two] messengers at $1,440 each, and one e[mploye] of the folding room will be dropped. [Of these] two are democrats, one is a republic[an] [and] the politics of the other is unknown.

Director-General Burke had an in[terview] today, with Assistant Secretary of the T[reasury] Fairchild, which resulted in an agree[ment to] deduct $385,000 appropriated by cong[ress for] the benefit of the creditors of the world['s expo]sition, $372,757 being the aggregate am[ount of] claims in dispute, and to pay the sum o[f] [illegible] 243 pro rata to those whose claims cor[respond] with the accounts adjusted by the b[oard of] management. The $72,757 is to be di[stributed] when the disputed accounts have be[en ad]justed between the claimants and the b[oard of] management, or allowed by some t[ribunal] having jurisdiction.

The clerk of the house of represen[tatives] says that from the present indication[s there] will be fewer contested election cases [in] the next congress than there have been [in] any congress for forty years. There w[ill be no] more than four and probably no [more] than three.

General Hazen, chief signal officer, [has is]sued an order extending to a day and [a half in] advance, the weather indications [which] now only cover a day. The change [goes] into effect July 1st.
